Blecke totes hard line, credits into retirement

by MARY SULLIVAN
Lakeland Newspapers

During his final days as principal of Antioch Community High School, Art Blecke reflects on changes in students and education, his accomplishments and concerns for the future. He looks over the past 25 years with many valuable memories and no regrets.

"I have known a lot of great kids over a lot of years and the great kids are still here," he said.

This impression of the students has endured the years, the increased enrollment and the changing face of society.

When Blecke joined the ACHS staff as the first full-time Dean of Students in 1966, his role as disciplinarian was much different than today. The enrollment of 900-950 was required to adhere to dress and grooming codes.

Beate haircuts were definitely not cool at the school. For boys, hair length could waft no longer than to the shirt collar. They were not permitted to sport facial hair and sideburns had to be cropped to the mid-ear area.

Slacks were out for girls. Skirts with hemlines below the knees were deemed proper attire for the females during school and at all school functions.

The school's policy was thrown out in favor of one student's quest to "do his own thing" and wear his hair long. In 1970, an Appellate Court ruled that there was not sufficient evidence to suggest that relaxed appearance standards would have a detrimental effect on education. Thus, the dress code was dropped.

"I think the disappearance of that control led to a lessening of control over students," said Blecke.

Diminished control, Blecke said, is still being felt with further changes throughout the educational system, such as the preponderance of state mandated programs and prohibition of corporal punishment.

"Students used to volunteer to take the paddle rather than stay after school," he said.

Civil liberties actions have eliminated that option, while schools continue to be faced with mounting responsibilities. Blecke said that schools are now being asked to take on roles that had previously been borne by the parents or an extended family. Adopted roles include those of sex education, drug and alcohol awareness and (Continued on Page 43)

Gulf vets to lead Memorial Day Parade

Desert Storm veterans Tom Denman and Pat Porttues have returned from their duties in the Persian Gulf and will lead Antioch's Memorial Day Parade, Monday, May 27 at 10 a.m.

Porteus, an Army Capt. with the 416th Engineering Command, and Denman, a sailor who served aboard the USS Sacramento, will lead the parade along its route.

The parade will originate at the Antioch Community High School (ACHS) parking lot and will proceed up Main St. to Orchard St.

A memorial service will be held at the cannons across from village hall, immediately following the parade. Capt. Tzones from the Great Lakes Naval Training Station will be featured as the guest speaker. The invocation will be delivered by Rev. Lawrence Hanley of St. Peter's Parish. Master of Ceremonies will be Post Commander Al Himber.

The event is coordinated by the Antioch VFW and will feature the ACHS Band, the Antioch Upper Grade School Band, village and township officials, State Rep. Robert Churchill, Boy and Girl Scout Troops, the Loyal Order of the Moose, AARP, Antioch Seniors, Junior Miss and Miss Antioch, Miss Mundelein, the Knights of Columbus, Antioch Lions Club, Oakwood Knolls Homeowners Assn., Postal employees, Antioch and Lake Villa Rescue Squads and Fire Departments, the Fox Lake Fire Dept., the Model A Club, as well as area businesses.

In memory

America will take time out to remember its fallen heroes this Memorial Day. The actual Memorial Day date is Thursday, May 30, but for many people, Monday, May 27 will be the third day of a three-day weekend of rest, relaxation, recreation and remembrance. — Photo by Lisa Benitez

Rescuer honored

LAKE VILLA—In 1956, Jake Fish responded to one call to which many people owe their lives. He and four other men answered the need to establish a rescue squad in Lake Villa Township. Fish was honored for his dedication to saving the lives of township residents. Fish was the center of attention at a dinner dance in celebration of the 35th anniversary of the squad.

Honor for saint

MUNDELEIN—Mother Theresa, the famed nun from India some people regard as the next saint, will receive the highest honor of the Institute of Religious Life at a June 1 banquet at St. Mary of the Lake Seminary. The annual award is being given by the organization of Catholic religious sisters and brothers for her loyalty to the church, charity, feeding the poor and hungry and apostolic works. About 300 persons are expected to attend.

New police pact

LIBERTYVILLE—Members of the police lodge have a new contract. It gives them a 6 percent pay raise retroactive to May 1, 2 percent more on Nov. 1 and a 6 percent increase next year at this time. This raises the starting salary to $27,012 with a top of $36,264. Police also won an increase in life insurance benefits to $30,000 from $20,000 with the village paying 100 percent instead of 90 percent of the cost and one additional paid holiday. The life insurance and holiday benefits have been extended to other village employees.

Bond issue

ROUND LAKE—Round Lake Unit Dist. 116 announced it's intention to issue $4,000,000 in bonds in order to repay outstanding teacher's orders, interest payments, and other expenses related to the teacher's orders. This is after a $3.2 million referendum to pay teacher's orders failed at the polls in April.

Bleckle retires

ANTIOCH—During his final days as principal of Antioch Community High School, Art Bleckle reflects on changes in students and education, his accomplishments and concerns for the future. He looks over the past 25 years with many valuable memories and no regrets.

New high school?

VERNON HILLS—Mayor Barbara Williams said she is not necessarily interested in a new high school for her community, but many residents and village board members do want one. So she is meeting periodically with Libertyville High School Supt. Donald Gossett on the matter to overcome a school board conception that a building addition to the high school is opposed. The issue failed on the February ballot, but will be back in the November election. Williams said the high school might be a two- or four-year facility, no a separate district.

Ponder options

GRAYSLAKE—Grayslake Community Park Dist. Board of

Commissioners may be considering a different way to fund a 40 acre parcel of Central Park at its May 29 meeting. The finance committee is expected to recommend that the approximately $90,000 earmarked to come from taxpayers be assigned to the regular bond issues of the park district.

Bomb threats

NORTH CHICAGO—North Chicago Unit Dist. 187 officials have announced that three schools in the district have received approximately 17 bomb threats since January, forcing the evacuation of the school. No bombs have been found at any school. Taps on school district phone lines, officials say, may lead to convictions of the callers.

Yellow page drive extended

Lake County residents can recycle their outdated regional telephone directories, the one with the blue cover, through the end of May at the following location: Libertyville Twp. Office, East Visitor Parking Lot, 359 Merrill Ct.,

Libertyville, from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

All of the directories collected in the drive, which coincides with distribution of the new 1991 Ameritech PagesPlus Regional Yellow Pages, will be recycled into other paper products, such as newsprint and tissue paper.

The pilot program is the first of its kind for Lake County and is being coordinated by the Libertyville Twp. Recycling Committee, The Lambs and the Yellow Page publisher, DonTech.

Spring heralds in annual BIOME picnic with perfect day

by TOM BANACH
Lakeland Newspapers

Just as if the forces of nature were in tune to the social forces that have become the guardians of nature, the nasty, stormy weather of Saturday gave way to a perfect spring day on Sunday—a perfect day to mark the third annual picnic and workshop of Biome Network.

Members of the 160 strong network, their families, friends and those interested in where we live came together at Shelter E at the Lakewood Forest Preserve feast on the culinary delights of home cooked meals and to listen and discuss the four topics presented: Lake County's Environment—Preserving It Through Trail Corridors, Transportation-A Plan for the Future, Solid Waste-Reduce, Recycle and Composting for Today and Wildlife-Educating and Stewardship with Craig Hendec.

Besides the presentations, there were focus tables and video presentations on a host of key issues in Lake County Biome Network, founded in January of 1988, seeks to unite individuals and groups who share common concerns relating development and the need to balance future growth with preservation of Lake County's sensitive natural resources. It is an informal association of people who, through need, have become experts themselves not necessarily on an issue, but on where to get information on an issue to support or oppose it. It is a network of people talking to people.

"What we're doing everyday is talking, getting more people to know and be awarded of what's going on around them," says Beth Geuzendam, one of the founding members of the Biome Network.

Can I really be happier?

June 5, 1991 7-8 p.m.

Presented by:

Bruce Roberts, M.D.
Staff Psychiatrist
Saint Therese Medical Center

Despite your best attempts at trying to convince yourself to be happy, you may, with time, find yourself back to the same difficult emotional state. This unhappiness may persist or recur despite trying psychotherapy, antidepressant medication, positive thinking and self-help books. Other manifestations of the depression can be loneliness, weight problems, or problems getting and keeping relationships. Why does this happen? Is there anything that can be done?

Bruce Roberts, M.D., has held leadership positions in the Department of Psychiatry at the University of Illinois and Northwestern University Medical Schools and most recently as Director of a Multiprogram Adult and Adolescent Psychiatric Service in the Franciscan Sisters Health Care Corporation. Dr. Roberts is presently Co-Medical Director of Adult Psychiatric Services and in private practice in Highland Park and Waukegan.

Gorski is April's top student

Antioch Community High School (ACHS) Principal Art Bleke congratulates Stephanie Gorski for her selection as Student of the Month for April.

Gorski named ACHS Student of the Month

Stephanie Gorski has been selected as the Antioch Community High School (ACHS) Student of the Month for April.

She was nominated by Fran Waible and Janel Maren of the English Department and student council.

As a recorder for the Northeast District and the State Student Council Conventions, Gorski is the first ACHS student to hold a district office. She was also elected as the district treasurer for the northeast district. She is the community project "Sharing is Caring" co-chairperson and the chairperson for the Homecoming's Spirit Days.

The program is sponsored by the Bank of Waukegan, Antioch facility, with a contribution of $100 each month to the ACHS Parent/Teacher Scholarship Fund on behalf of the student.

The selection is made by the administrative staff of the high school and is based on scholarship, leadership, character and service to the school or community.

Big turnout swaps ideas for Antioch's downtown

by MARY SULLIVAN
Lakeland Newspapers

About 70 people, representing Antioch's businesses, community organizations and the high school, shared ideas on the revitalization of the downtown area at a day-long workshop, May 21.

"We were quite impressed, that was more than expected," said Village Public Relations Consultant Peg Ransom, "we've got our work cut out for us now."

Under the direction of consultant Bert Stitt, the workshop was designed to identify problems with the downtown area and transform them into solution statements and goals, according to Ransom.

"People were unanimously impressed with how well we were able to cooperate with each other and how much we got done," she said.

The workshop is only the beginning of the project to develop a centralized management district for and bring a greater variety of business to the downtown district.

"If Antioch's downtown is going to stay in tune, it's got to be supported by the whole community," she said.

A major cross-section of the community was indeed represented at the workshop, particularly with the presence of several Antioch Community High School students. Ransom says that their input and involvement in the standing committees provides a different and important perspective, as well as new energy and diversity.

Several standing committees were formed to take on tasks such as analyzing the organizational structure of downtown, marketing the area, examining parking and traffic concerns, streetscaping and building facade improvement, attracting light industry and cultivating a diverse retail mix.

Antioch Police bust window smashers

by MARY SULLIVAN
Lakeland Newspapers

Three juveniles are facing charges of felony damage to property in connection with vandalism resulting in nearly $10,000 in damage, according to Antioch Police Lt. Charles Watkins.

Most of the damage was done to windows in businesses and residences on the north side of the village. The department began receiving numerous reports of rocks and BB shots breaking windows early in March, said Watkins.

Additionally, the Methodist Church on Main St. was hit with $2,000 to $3,000 in vandalism. A dog was reportedly shot with a BB gun required veterinary care.

Through an intensive three-month investigation, Antioch Police Officers Det. Ronald Roth, Cpl. Jim Hession and Watkins were able to arrest the suspects through information obtained from re-interviewing victims and from an anonymous tip from Crimestoppers. The arrests clear up 20 criminal damage to property reports, said Watkins.

Of the suspects, one is charged with 18 counts of felony damage to property and is being held in the Lake County Youth Home. The others, one charged with 15 counts of felony damage to property and the other with two, are scheduled to appear before the Lake County Juvenile Court, added Watkins.

Depending on their prior records, the youths could face penalties ranging from court supervision with restitution to the victims, court ordered counseling or incarceration.

A Village of Antioch ordinance strictly forbids possession or firing of a BB or pellet gun on any street within the village limits and anywhere outside the gun-owner's private property.

"The police will be enforcing this 100 percent this year and there will be no compromises," said Watkins.

Wilton puts village's attorney fees on hold

by MARY SULLIVAN
Lakeland Newspapers

Attorney Michael Cummins will have to wait to be paid for services rendered for Antioch Police Dept. disciplinary action. Mayor Robert Wilton vetoed a motion to pay $20,775 in legal fees generated from the Police and Fire Commission hearings on Officer Michael Culat.

The action overruled the decision by four of the six trustees to allow the payment. Trustees Wayne Foresta and Larry Hanson dissented.

"I feel that I can't say yes to this because of the fact that we never really discussed this," said Hanson, "we opened up a blank check for this."

Wilton's veto must be filed in writing within five days. The matter will be discussed before the board at their next meeting, rescheduled for Tuesday, May 28 at 7:30 due to the Memorial Day holiday.

Hiring of Cummins for the commission hearings was previously approved by the board.

"The village has a responsibility to carry out the letter of the law and have the hearing and hire an attorney to protect the village," said Trustee Marilyn Shineflug.

In a related matter, a letter from Mary Lou Eckert was read stating that she was abandoning her role as Chairman of the Police and Fire Commission. Wilton went ahead with his appointment of Robert Long as Chairman of the Police and Fire Commission despite sentiment by the majority of the board to appoint Jerry Pankauskas.

Trustees Donald Amundsen disputed Long's qualifications for the post and Shineflug promoted the appointment of Pankauskas in light of his position as a Lake County Sheriff's Deputy.

"We need someone who has an open mind," said Shineflug, "that person must have the ability to see things according to the letter of the law."

Hanson and Foresta concurred with the mayor's appointment, which is temporary, citing Long's qualifications as an attorney.

Culat was found guilty on 12 of 13 charges of conduct unbecoming an officer and was discharged from the force. The matter is being appealed.

Raises $33,000

The Antioch Mental Health Assn. raised over $33,000 at its 26th Annual Cotillion. Recipients include Grove School, Riverside Foundation, Lake County Society for Human Development, Antioch Library Learning Center and the Special Education Dept. of Antioch School Dist. 34.

Morjals celebrates 45th wedding anniversary

by LIZ SCHMEHL
(708)395-5380
45th Anniversary

May 11 was a very special day for Florence and Louis Morjal of Antioch. Their daughter and son-in-law, Trish and Walter Larson, would like to wish them a very happy 45th wedding anniversary. They have been residents of Antioch since 1967 and Louis has past memories of coming to the Antioch area to fish with his dad as a child.

Florence and Louis, I want you to know that Trish tried to get this anniversary wish in ahead of time. However, I had gotten ahead in tidbits and since I had submitted items for two weeks it had to be a "belated" anniversary wish—my fault, not Trish's. She tells me you are a very special couple. With any luck maybe I will get your 50th in on time.

Congratulations to you both, it is always fun reporting on the successful happy marriages.

Poster Contest

The fifth grade students from Grass Lake School recently participated in a poster contest as part of their participation in "Growing Up Well Program." Growing Up Well presenters, Marie Brausam and Ted Gavlin, visited the fifth grade for five consecutive Wednesdays in order to teach them about making healthy choices. The Growing Up Well Program is a drug prevention and self-es-teen program geared for the various grade school levels. In grades kindergarten through third the presenters dress as clowns in order to project a friendly positive image as the material is presented. The little ones really became attached to the clowns and vice versa. The 30 minute, six-week sessions pass quickly and as the clowns exit the classroom for the final session, the children present them with hugs and handwritten keepsake messages. In grades four through eight the presenters to in as themselves and present the material in an atmosphere of fun and relaxation. At the end of the fifth grade session the children are asked to make a poster showing all they have learned. Then all the children vote at to which poster best shows what was taught.

This year's winners of the poster contest are: First place, Josh White; second place, Kristina Lochhead; third place Candice Kasprzak. All of the posters are displayed in the junior high hallway. If you have an occasion to visit GLG, take notice of the fine job the students did creating these posters.

Teacher Appreciation

Students learn finger lickin' good lesson

First graders at Antioch Lower Grade School are among more than 3,000 Lake County youth being exposed to a unique educational opportunity. They are participating in the 4-H embryology project in which they have been hatching chicks right in their own classrooms.

The 21-day incubation time has been watched carefully by youth and their teachers. These learning laboratories involve the students during the entire incubation process. The students care for the baby chicks until they are ready to be placed on a farm.

Over 100 teachers have received training from the University of Illinois Poultry Specialist Ken Koelkebeck, and are teaching anatomy, egg production and formation of the embryo.

The U of I Cooperative Extension Service provided this teaching opportunity with materials and the fertile eggs at no cost to the schools. The Lake County program is coordinated at the CES office in Grayslake.

Under a new format, four singles and four double teams will head to the state finals competition at Hersey High School in Arlington Heights May 24.

Flood of violence prompts prevention

by CLAUDIA M. LENART
Lakeland Newspapers

An unprecedented amount of violent death has cast a cloud over Lake County in recent weeks causing many residents to feel uneasy, fearful, confused. Newspaper headlines have shouted 'suicide, murder, death' It happens in Chicago all the time, but it's not supposed to happen here in our peaceful haven. Yet it has happened here.

"When something like this happens, it's hard to believe. Our belief system says it's not supposed to happen," said Dr. Bernard Levine, psychologist at Dr. B.L. Levine and Assoc. in Libertyville. "Our belief that because we live in a certain place, we'll be protected from violence is pretty strong. It's reinforced when nothing happens for a long time and it makes us believe it even stronger."

An increase in violence in a community may cause some people to feel more stressed, particularly people who identify with the victims for some reason. Levine said people tend to overidentify and believe "that happened in Round Lake Beach, it won't happen here in Round Lake Heights or Lake Bluff." Or they may think "Robert Snook was an attorney and he was murdered, therefore attorneys are more prone to be victims." "It gives people a false sense of security," he said.

"We're not an island to ourselves," said There is a connection between the haves and the have nots...It's helpful for us to be aware, to be more careful. All of us are potential victims."

Schools are usually the first parts of society to take a proactive stance in dealing with the violence. Teenagers who went to school with the victims are probably better off now with the intensive counseling, according to Jennifer Wallace, assistant professor of sociology at Lake Forest College. "It's not that it's not a hard thing for those kids, but they're getting more attention now than ever," she said.

"When these things happen, the first reaction is 'How can this happen here?' said Wallace. "Second, 'We've got to do something about this.'" Wallace believes that the awareness of potential violence is a positive thing because it spurs people to get involved in preventive measures such as Neighborhood Watch programs.

Larry Brooks, LCSW, clinical social worker at Victory Memorial Hospital, also sees the awareness as a positive result of the violence. "What I hope is, as part of the awareness, people realize it's better to express themselves and deal with the problems through the mental health professions. Maybe then the mental health

'It's helpful for us to be aware, to be more careful. All of us are potential victims.'—Dr. Bernard Levine, psychologist stigma might go away." Brooks believes that the recent suicide victims and the murderers couldn't deal with the stress in their lives and were in need of the services of mental health professionals.

Another effect noted by Brooks is that the recent deaths bring people to face their own immortality. "Sometimes the tremendous loss, will renew people, they learn to use the time better while they're here."

According to Magee Middle School Principal Wilda Stanton, "They were both perfectly nice girls."

According to their teachers, Bob Dawson and Paul Gerlach, they were "typical teenagers," "extremely well-liked," "beautiful girls."

According to Julie Ann Pallach and Susan Zingales themselves, "Life is too stressful."

On Tuesday, May 16, the last day of her life, Julie Ann Pallach played basketball with a friend after school, then her boyfriend walked her partway home. Sometime later, she and Susan Zingales met and walked from their homes on Hawthorn St. in Round Lake Beach to the railroad tracks in Round Lake, where the 14-year-olds sat down on the tracks to wait for the 9:50 p.m. Metra commuter train bound for Fox Lake. A witness is said to have described the girls as sitting with their backs to the oncoming train, covering their ears and screaming as the approaching train blew its whistle.

Pallach and Zingales left behind a brief note in Pallach's bedroom to console parents and friends, but gave little explanation.

"To whom it may concern," it read, "We decided that this was the only way out. Life is too stressful. I'm sorry. (We're) We love everyone. Goodbyes aren't forever. Love, Sue and Julie."

But while the area reels with the horror of the act itself, and struggles to understand the reasons behind the tragedy, some simply sat and remembered the girls themselves.

Stanton remembered the girls as "beautiful, and very athletic. Julie was vivacious, energetic. Sue was quieter. They were both beautiful."

Pallach was known to have had problems over the death of her father from cancer. His death during the Christmas holidays in 1989, had been lingering and Pallach had apparently taken it hard. In the past year and a half, Pallach was described as being "depressed," but had been in therapy with school social works, and was said to be "coming along."

"I knew she had problems with her father dying," Stanton recalled. "When she first came to this school, we had a conference on her. We were alert and looking for things to pick up on. Anything."

"We were alert," she repeated. "That's what bothers me. This was not a person who slipped through the cracks. This is a person who had services available."

Pallach had a boyfriend at the school. Dawson had the unnamed boy in his last period, and Pallach, he recalled, would drop in just before class to talk to him.

Both girls were waiting for graduation and had made the necessary preparations. Zingales was on the track team and Pallach was on the basketball team. Zingales had gone out for the basketball team but had dropped out, giving no explanation, according to coach Hollis Hollenberg, who described Pallach as a team player, an aggressive kid.

"She didn't mind," he recalled, "if others got the points. She would pass the ball to someone else. Kids don't always get that. They recognize who got the score, but if you ask, 'Who did the assist?' they don't understand." Pallach understood.

Zingales is described by almost everyone as being "quiet." But her quietude was not the sort that might have raised suspicions.

"She was very quiet," Gerlach remembers, "although she would take part in class discussions."

Zingales never seemed to have a problem, even with her math studies. Gerlach, who had Zingales in the special Individualized Instruction Program (IIP) said, "I would go down the row and ask if she had a problem, but usually she would say she didn't have a problem, or 'I'll work it out.' If she needed help she would come up to the desk, but most of the time she would say 'I understand,' or 'I'll figure it out.'"

Despite being in the IIP program,

'We were alert. That's what bothers me. This was not a person who slipped through the cracks. This is a person who had services available.'—Magee Middle School Principal Wilda Stanton

Zingales made the honor roll several times. "Her mother seemed happy," Gerlach recalled. "Sue seemed happy."

"She was the typical American girl-next-door. At least, that was my impression once," Gerlach said. "I would describe her as a well-behaved, hard working, and, I thought, confident individual."

One class assignment, Dawson specifically recalled, was a unit on the Spoon River Anthology, "which, as you know," Dawson said, "is set in a cemetery. The dead rise from this to tell the truth about the living."

Pallach commented on her test paper that "she thought it was interesting because it dealt with lives, and with death, because she had thought about that."

"I didn't think about it at the time," Dawson recalls bitterly, "because I thought it was in the past, about her father."

Displaying the characteristic anger many people feel towards suicide victims, Dawson said, "I'd like to pick her up and shake her and say 'You dummy! Why did you do this to yourself and to all the other people who love you?' But I can't. She's dead."

Motive sought in murder of Antioch teen, two held

by MARY SULLIVAN
Lakeland Newspapers

The Lake County Sheriff's Dept. is looking for a motive in the strangulation murder of a 15-year old Antioch girl. Two teen-agers have been arrested in connection with the death of Chandra Haak.

Terrance J. Nank, 18, 25380 East Ave., who lived two doors away from the victim, has been charged with two counts of murder and one count of concealing a homicidal death. He is being held in Lake County Jail without bond, according to the Lake County Sheriff's Dept.

Jason T. Patterson, 17, 40958 Rte. 83, is being held in lieu of $100,000 bond, on a charge of one count of concealing a homicidal death.

"The families had had some different disputes," said Sheriff Clinton Grinnell, "we don't know which one, if any of them led to the murder."

Haak's body was discovered by a fisherman, May 14, near the east shoreline of Lake Marie, which is in the vicinity of Haak's home. Sheriff's reports say that the body was found with a rope tied around the ankle and neck with the other end tied to a concrete cinder block.

After being pulled from the water by the Antioch Fire Department Under Water Recovery Team, the body was taken to the Coroner's Facility in Waukegan. Coroner Barbara Richardson determined that Haak died as a result of strangulation and was dead before she was put in the water.

Sheriff Clinton Grinnell reported that Nank, a neighbor of Haak's, allegedly confronted the victim in a wooded area on the morning of May 1 as she was on her way to Antioch Community High School.

Following an argument over an undisclosed matter, Grinnell said that Nank allegedly strangled Haak and concealed her body in the woods.

Later, it is alleged that Nank employed the help of Patterson to remove evidence of the body by submerging in the lake.

The Lake County Sheriff's Police were led to the suspects through a series of interviews and the presence of cinder blocks outside the Nank home, said Grinnell.

"This was a case that took a lot of interviewing and a lot of long, hard investigation to bring this matter to its conclusion," said Grinnell.

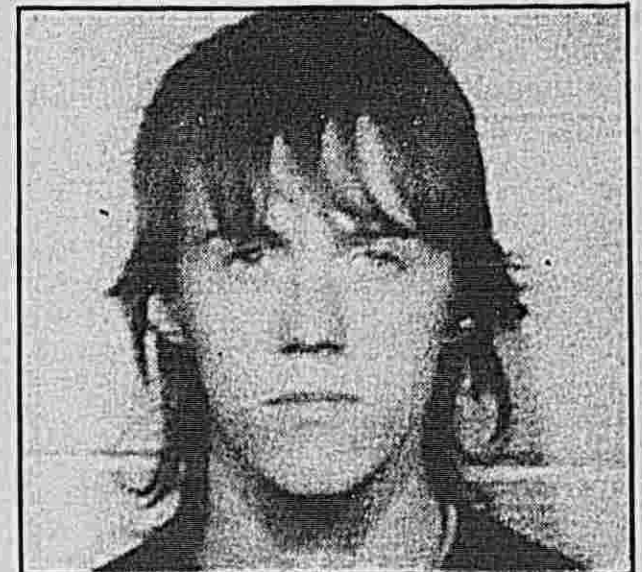

The department is continuing to investigate the motive of the incident. Grinnell stated that drugs were not involved and there was no indication that the victim and her assailant were involved in a "boyfriend/girlfriend" relationship.

"It's safe to say that this investigation is not completely wrapped up," he added.

Nank was apprehended, May 15, at his home. Patterson was taken by Lake County Sheriff's Officers from the Antioch Police Department where he was being confined on an unrelated disorderly conduct charge.

Making statesmen for Illinois

Gen. Colin L. Powell, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, might have been thinking about Ft. Sheridan when he pointed out that the U.S. has Army bases that are a residual of the Indian wars of the last century. Actually, the venerable Lake County military installation came into being after the Civil War to provide garrison strength to quell potential labor unrest in Chicago. But Gen. Powell made his point.

Ft. Sheridan is an installation that doesn't fit in with the new base force level concept where the U.S. will have a quality force of sufficient size to perform any mission for which it might be called. Forty-three bases are due for closing by 1997 to help bring about a 25 percent reduction in size and Dept. of Defense spending.

The antiquated and costly bases have become symbols of the old security context of the years following World War II when the Soviet Union presented a clear and present danger. Interestingly, Great Lakes Naval Training Center epitomizes the new base force level concept and therefore is do for significant expansion. So within a few miles, Lake County residents are witness to two examples of how our nation proposes to best use shrinking resources in the post-Cold War society.

Democratic pork-barrellers in Congress will be counted on to challenge recommendations of the Defense Base Closure and Realignment Commission. The commission will review Pentagon plans and make recommendations to President Bush by July 1. Closure opponents aren't expected to include members of the Illinois Democratic delegation simply because of the good fortune of Great Lakes expansion. This is one time they'll be able to take the high road of statesmanship.

Murder routine, life cheap, says crime author

by BILL SCHROEDER

A cloud of violence has settled over Lake County like a blanket of fog. In the wake of a flurry of murders, violent deaths and the shooting of a police officer by a dangerous criminal, there is the repeated question being asked, "What's happening to our community?"

A highly respected crime writer, Ed Baumann, shook his head in wonderment. "It's hard to say. The funny thing is that murder and violence haven't been confined to Lake County," Baumann noted. There's been an outbreak of violence up and down the west shore of Lake Michigan. The ex-newspaperman asked, "Have you heard about the 11-year-old kid in Racine who shot a man because some friends wanted him killed? The cops don't know what to do with him."

Baumann's latest book, "Getting Away with Murder" written in collaboration with Chicago newsman John O'Brien, is selling well. The chronicle of 57 unsolved murders currently is sixth on the Chicago best seller list. The Kenosha author and O'Brien have "Murder Next Door" in galley proofs as a sort of sequel, only this time the murderers got caught.

Pressed for a theory about the abnormal outbreak of violence, Baumann referred to "a lot of sappy judges" who turn dangerous people loose on the streets. He said there are too many guns in circulation. Baumann mentioned that there are two generations of Americans now who have been brought up on a heavy diet of television violence, leaving a lot of people with a low sense of value for human life.

After covering major crimes in Chicago and the midwest for nearly 40 years, Baumann made a startling observation.

Tax explosion mars spellbinding growth

Editor's note: Mr. Martin is focusing on the foibles of the growth and development syndrom as they pertain to his hometown of Gurnee, but his viewpoint asks the broader question of whether unbridled growth pays for itself or whether taxpayers pay. Martin is president of his own company, Jerry Martin Associates located in Gurnee, a marketing firm specializing in marina affairs and outdoor recreation. He and his wife have resided in Gurnee since 1957.

by JERRY MARTIN

Many Gurnee citizens want Mayor Welton and his council to reconsider their current course relating to the huge developments on the west side in Gurnee.

Gurnee residents are proud of their community. But the time is here to judge future direction and planning in light of the tax burden which has become onerous and overwhelming for most.

I believe the Mayor should stop talking about the village's low tax rate, while all governmental bodies around the village have exploded. Much of this explosion is the result of actions of the village. His explanations are simplistic and indicate he's minimizing the squeeze many are experiencing.

It should be obvious to most that the citizens of Gurnee want to save their tax dollars, not spend them. The recent petition to prohibit the park district from having $16,000,000 spending authority proves that.

The park district indicated the village government would buy the land designated for a golf course if they couldn't. Instead of spending $3,500,000 buying property from speculative developers, assuming this money could be made available, it should be spent providing services free that citizens now pay for, (like garbage collection, or lowering the village tax rate to zero). Those would be good first step toward helping the citizens alleviate the tax burden and given them a direct benefit from these big sources of income.

Gurnee has been the fortunate recipient of huge amounts of money from Great

"Over the years there have been a number of spectacular murder cases, but not at the rate we have now. Violence has gotten routine."

GREAT STREET---Main street still is a great place to do business. I always enjoy receiving reports about how enjoyable downtown areas are to shop. Here's a couple recent ones:

George Bury of 25380 Dering Ln., Lake Villa, wrote about stopping for a bite to eat at Kentucky Fried Chicken in Antioch where he admired the manager's Desert Storm cap. "I asked him where he bought it so that I could buy one to wear when my son came home in a few weeks," Bury related. "He said that his father sent it to him from Florida. With that he took off the hat and gave it to me, saying 'wear it when he walks through the door.'" Bury won't soon forget that thoughtful gesture to make customers feel welcome.

J. Stevens of the Hilltop Sanatorium, Lake Bluff, was taken with the quick attention of Proctor's Floral of Libertyville to make a customer satisfied. Stevens notified the store about a dozen Mother's Day roses that wilted unexpectedly. "I expected nothing more than an apology. By noon the same day I received a dozen beautiful, fresh roses. It's very important to compliment the merchant who still follows the old-fashioned concept of customer satisfaction."

These stories brightened my day and I hope you find them heartening in these days of mass merchandising where the individual consumer often is ignored or forgotten.

Commentary

America and other Gurnee stores through the last decade, and soon Gurnee Mills tax receipts will be pouring in. But this doesn't mean we have to spend every last cent. Instead, dollars should be assigned to tax abatement.

The average Gurnee citizen is not aware of the details of the arrangements between the village, the developers and the county. Most object to the over-simplification of the "growth" versus "no-growth" arguments when it comes to taxation or putting people into neat little political niches.

The developers took their chances when they bought their properties. As long as they build on them within legal limits, so be it. However, it is not up to the village, just as it was not up to the park district, to mitigate the problems the combined developing groups face in protecting the wetlands in such a vast area, through parks and golf courses.

We have to get all of the agreements and "bargaining" out on the table so citizens can examine them in great detail. They want to be aware of the physical impact this huge development would make on the existing community. Few know that the entire section drains to the north, then runs east into the Des Plaines River north of Gurnee. Reports given to all of the developers have indicated that the soil is not conducive to "high impact" development. In my opinion that's the reason they got together as a group and segregated the wetlands "somewhere" in one area, and convinced the village to take over this area.

Everyone wants assurance this plan will pass the standards established by the Corps of Engineers on behalf of the Environmental Protection Agency, because if not it means bigger-than-ever floods for downtown Gurnee, not to mention inundating the new neighborhoods as well.

The Village of Gurnee should not buy land for a golf course or park from (Continued on next page)

Free trade debacle

Editor:

The free trade initiative proposed by the Bush administration has no cost benefit favoring the U.S., but rather a high risk to our present fragile and wounded economy. The whole concept should be derailed.

The concern about free trade is shared by everyone I have discussed the issue with. I find a total absence of popular support for this proposed debacle.

New era in village

Editor:

A new era has begun in Lindenhurst. From all outward appearances in the residents have reason for optimism about our future. Finally we have in Paul Baumunk a mayor at least willing to listen to concerned residents. He should be commended for encouraging participation in our government regardless of past political persuasions. The same sentiment has been voiced by newly elected Trustee Carl Norlin. What a refreshing and invigoration change.

Mayor Baumunk has been appearing all over town, keeping his promise to continue walking the village and getting to know residents while listening to their concerns.

The challenges are grat in overcoming years of neglect and mismanagement by the former administration. Mayor Baumunk deserves credit for living up to his campaign promises. This should be an example of other public officials which suffer apparent post-election amnesia.

by JOSEPH SOULAK
Lakeland Newspaper

SOMETHING SPECIAL—Back in the news is Gil Meisgeier. The one-time bar owner in Fox Lake and former proprietor of two 18-year-old watering holes over the state line in Wisconsin, has been named to an elite Wisconsin commission.

He is on the Something Special from Wisconsin Advisory Council, a body of the Dept. of Agriculture.

This has stirred up a lot of controversy on the Wisconsin side of the border.

"Has our state lost its mind?" one Dairyland reader asked. "Meisgeier was tossed out of the presidency of the Tavern League of Wisconsin (for discrepancies in the president's fund. There were hints of political contributions to lobbyists) and thrown out of Fox Lake for wrongdoing. Now, he is on a council representing the people of Wisconsin. Someone has to be kidding.

"The only thing Meisgeier tried to do for Wisconsin was lower the drinking age to kill off our young adults on both sides of the border. He has a bar by the border and needs young drinkers from Illinois and Wisconsin to line his pocket."

He now owns Memories, formerly Rocket North in Trevor. He also used to own the former Horsin' Around (now operating under a different name), both on Rte. 83 in Trevor. They opened in 1980 catering to 18-year-olds. Altogether there are 10 to 12 bars within a short distance of each other.

In past years they helped give the name "Blood Alley" to the stretch of Rte. 83 leading into Antioch where young, drinking lives were lost.

"Meisgeier has never cared nor ever will care about Wisconsin or Illinois young adults," my source said. "He is only concerned with money."

Yes, it seems like Meisgeier is Something Special from Wisconsin, and Illinois, too.

MOVING AROUND—Republican Congressman Phil Crane is covering all bases. In anticipation of redistricting this year, he just moved from Mt. Prospect to McHenry and opened a congressional office in McHenry itself. This is in addition to his Arlington Heights office.

His 12th Dist. has grown to big over the past 10 years that redrawn lines are inevitable. "My district will have to lose 50,000 people to some other district," he told me at lunch earlier this week. A district that extends into McHenry County (which is also growing and also represented by Crane) is seen as a safe election bet. With the Democrats drawing the lines the one-time leading Republican conservative Crane doesn't think anyone is going to do him any favors.

If the lines are gerrymandered too much Crane kids that he may have to move back to the city. Or, over the state line into the Wisconsin congressional district of Democrat Les Aspin, chairman of the House Armed Forces Committee. Crane is kidding, of course. But it's a nice thought.

Aspin, who gets re-elected time after time, is envied by other congressman like Crane. Aspin has a campaign war chest that could almost finance another Persian Gulf war. Elections offer token Republican opposition.

Would Crane play in Wisconsin? Not hardly. That state is too liberal for someone like him.

NAPOLEAN GONE—We may have to pass the hat for Dennis Abbott of Echo Lake. The bib overall, one-truck trucker and former president of the Lake Zurich Fire Protection Dist. is out of a job.

When his four-year appointment came up this month it was not renewed. New Dist. 6 County Board member Robert Grever of Lake Zurich said Abbott did not reapply for appointment. "Of course, I wouldn't have considered developers, to create attractions so their formulas for profit come out right. That is really the builders' problem. Most citizens want not tax involvement. All you have to do is ask the Resolution Trust Co., the federal agency that takes over failed Savings and Loan's, about golf courses as an investment in developments, and they'll candidly tell you of the extreme fiscal risk of course construction and management. The village should have no part of it.

Therefore, I hope Mayor Welton will be open and receptive to the "cries for help" that the citizens are now directing toward him. They shouldn't be patronized or criticized, as is appeared they were from newspaper reports of the last council meeting for airing their feelings. The council members were elected to represent all.

The mayor should know that the community is very keenly following this situation and wants complete explanations for every decision. The future will be judged by what he does next. I for one, hope he keeps our tax dollars out of the new West Gurnee. Let the developers spend their own money.

it even if he did," Grever said. "Maybe he saw the handwriting on the wall. There were just too many people who wondered how he got there in the first place." Credit former County Board member Bruce Hansen of Lake Zurich for that one.

Two years ago there was a feeble attempt to change the state law so Abbott could be run out of office, tarred and feathered.

Abbott is blamed for several aborted attempts to acquire an abandoned Nike site on Quentin Rd. for the new fire protection district headquarters. "The Nike site is now a non-issue," Grever said.

Abbott got so Napoleonic he convinced the fire board to hire a $60,000 consultant. Board members reportedly paid themselves $63,000 for meetings last year, many of them of questionable merit.

Now that Abbott is history, who's going to straighten out the mess he left behind? None other than Jeff Sedlack of unincorporated Echo Lake. A former Lake Zurich village trustee, the conservative certified public accountant is Mr. Nice Guy.

His first job? Stop the purchase of a fire district site near the township line far from the center of activity in Ela Twp.

DAMN THE PUBLIC—Big boys and girls should know better. Particularly those who sit on the new Solid Waste Agency of Lake County (SWALCO) That's the super body of 35 member communities searching out ways and places to dump our garbage.

This body met in April to select an executive committee, approve a 1991-92 budget, vote on retaining a consultant and authorize a search for a recycling coordinator.

But it was for naught. Many of the actions and votes have to be repeated at a special meeting this week. Fewer than the required three-fourths majority (27 or 35 members) were present to approve such items as the bylaws and budget at April 18 meeting. When the meeting began it was announced a quorum was not present.

Dist. 5 County Board member James Dolan presided. He said SWALCO staff advised voting could proceed without the required majority. So, those attending did just that.

Thanks for members like Mayor Charles Smith of Riverwoods. He protested. "This is a terrible precedent for a new organization," Smith said.

"The body showed great bravado (Damn the torpedos and full speed ahead) by adopting the bylaws," he added. "Some more conservative types might consider this action as borderline cavalier."

Smith wonders what the public thinks of a body spending its money. "We should avoid the appearance of frivolity," he reminded his colleagues.

Mother Theresa to appear at St. Mary seminary

Mother Theresa, the famed nun from India some people regard as a modern-day saint, will be at St. Mary of the Lake Seminary in Mundelein Saturday, June 1, to receive a prestigious award.

It is the Pro Fidelitate et Virtute (For Fidelity and Courage) award from the Institute of Religious Life. That international organization is composed of religious sisters and brothers.

Mother Theresa is being honored for her loyalty to the church, charity, work in feeding the poor and hungry, care of the sick and apostolic works.

She will address a 6:30 p.m. banquet on Saturday. Attendance of 300 religious order members from throughout the United States is expected. It is closed to the public.

The banquet is held each year at the seminary because of its central U.S. location and accommodations.

The institute was founded in 1974 and has offices in Chicago and Ann Arbor, Mich.

Past recipients of the same award have included William Isaacson of Lake Forest; Mother Claudia, former mother superior of the Immaculate Heart of Mary Sisters in Philadelphia; the Rev. John Hardon of the Society of Jesus (Jesuits); and Cardinal John Carberry, former archbishop of St. Louis and past president of the institute.

Phil's Beach now just fond memories

Lorraine Reilly was knee-high to a water bug when her father, Phillip Froehlke, launched what would become a Bangs Lake institution.

Now, Lorraine must stand on the shore and bid a fond farewell as the business her family nurtured for nearly seven decades sails into the sunset.

Phil's Beach — fun-and-frolic haven for city dwellers and Wauconda locals alike, host to movie stars and an on-location site for one of the most popular movies of the '80s — has gone down for the third time.

"It brought in an awful lot of beautiful memories," Lorraine said. "We had some moments when it was a little hectic, but we had nice customers and nice memories."

The memories began in 1922, when Lorraine was just six months old. Her parents, Phil and Wanda, were renting and running Kuebker's Landing (now Lindy's Landing) on Bangs Lake.

Between 1922 and 1926, the Froehlkes bought the lakefront property close to Kuebker's at 336 N. Main St. At the time, the only structures on the property were a house on the hill overlooking the lake and two cottages.

The Froehlkes started out by renting boats to fishermen and offering room and board to the anglers in the cottages.

Later came sand for a swimming area, and in 1926, Phil's Beach was born.

Lorraine and her brother Richard grew up with the recreation area. They served as lifeguards, concession workers and the clean-up patrol.

"Sometimes, we envied the kids who could have fun while we worked," Lorraine said.

At its zenith, Phil's Beach offered cottages for rent, a concession stand with a short-order menu, sailboats, rowboats, paddle boats, canoes and boat motors.

The beach became known for its water "toys." A hot summer day could become mighty cool on the slides, water horses, water wheels and rafts. Flood lights lengthened the playtime hours in the summer and made for some grand nocturnal ice skating in the winter.

"Like my father said, 'Lots of fun for old and young,'" Lorraine quipped.

"We'd open up around Memorial Day for swimming and stay open until late September, if the weather was nice," she added. "The day crowd would come in and leave before five, and the evening crowd would come in and stay until 10 or 11 with the floodlights on. That was before air-conditioning and TV — things change."

World War II and the Battle of the Bulge claimed Lorraine's brother. Lorraine and her new husband, Thomas Reilly, were on hand to pick up the slack and soon began producing their own generation of beach kids — Dick, Mary, Kathy and Mike.

Meanwhile, Phil had also made his mark as Wauconda's fire chief, acquiring the village's first modern fire engine.

"As my parents got older, we (now the Reilly family) took on more and more responsibility," Lorraine said. "All the kids helped out."

The customers were what made the beach for Lorraine.

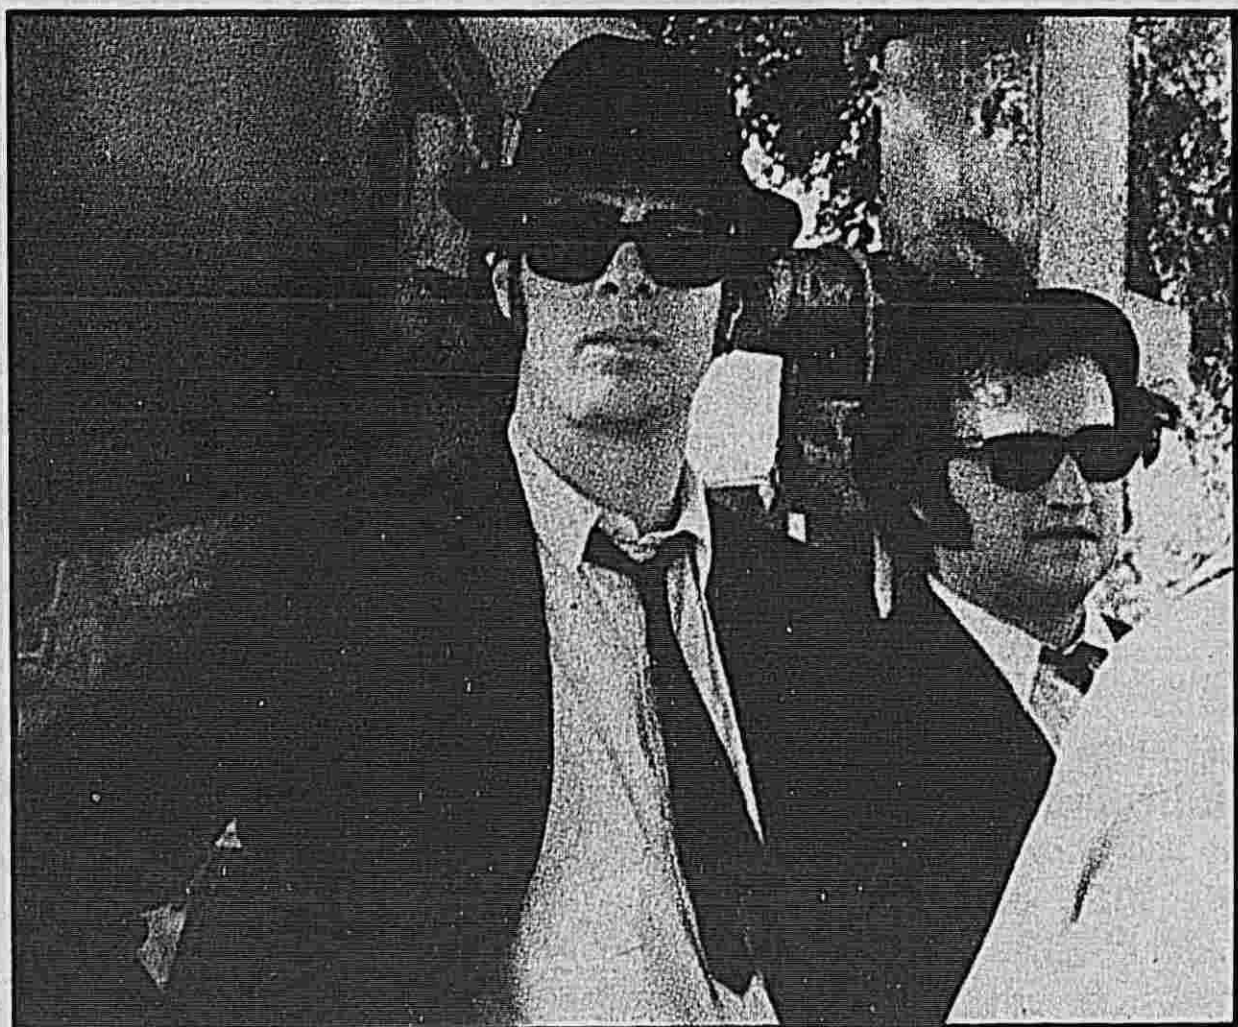

"I liked the people — they were really nice. They used to enjoy themselves. They'd go back and talk about how much fun they'd had."

"It was hard work for us, but it was enjoyable."

Some of the visitors to the beach were more than just faces in the crowd. Megastar Marlon Brando was one of the big names that Lorraine recollected.

Phil's Beach dived into a permanent spot in movie annals in September of 1979. That's when the crew of "The Blues Brothers" — complete with Dan Ackroyd and the late John Belushi — showed up to film a scene.

It was the scene in which Jake and Elwood Blues drive along the beach announcing their upcoming concert (Continued on Page 16)

Canoeing through the Amazon

The husband doesn't know it but I've been looking at travel brochures trying to find the perfect Vacation Get-a-way Summer Camp to send him to. He could use a vacation and I want to run the air condition full blast while he is out of town.

Wild West Dude Ranches sound interesting. Only thing is he can't ride a Mustang, rope and brand steers or shoot straight. He sings even "Home, Home On The Range" off key but I know he could belch loudly along with the best of them. He would just love the "All You Dudes Can Eat Buffalo and Coyote Meat Buffets" at the Cook's Wagon! He wouldn't mind sleeping under the stars with cactus, grizzlies, snakes and reptiles either.

Another possible vacation option would be to send the Mr. to Lost In Space Camp. They guarantee lots of control panels for him to play around with. He is the scientific/mathematical genius type. At a glance he adds up my week's checkbook expenditures to the penny without an adding machine. Space Camp would galvanize, invigorate, salivate his brain matter to new solar dimensions. He'd have fun out in Twilight Zones, Outer Limits star-trekking his way back home.

He has never been interested in taking the family to Disney World, Wisconsin Dells, or just taking the two of us to some Tahitian Island. He never showed interest in Viva Las Vegas Latilla's Style. The only place we've been was Terre Haute, Indiana to visit the folks down home. If you have never been there, trust me and don't go. Ask comedian Steve Martin about Terre Haute. He went there and the Hoosiers wanted to keep him Dead or Alive.

My last vacation option for Mr. Hon would be to sign him up for Missionary work in Africa. They could use a good manure/mud hut condo builder among the Zulus. Everyone would hoot and holler at his jokes and he could introduce to the Zulu Chieftans the marvelous invention called the remote control channel changer. Africa would embrace Mr. Hon dearly I am sure. He could gorge himself on all the rhino and crocodile meat to his heart's delight. He would be a very happy camper in croc and hippopotamus water slide parks there. The husband would love the flies, heat and humidity. Mosquitos, snake bites, cooties-nothing would bother him.

We spent 4 1/2 years in Bermuda at the beginning of our married life. Hurricanes didn't inconvenience him. He loved the tropical climate with its heat, humidity, the sweating and spiders that were bigger than our brand new baby daughter. There was such delight every time he smashed into oblivion another huge hairy spider. There were toads in Bermuda the size of dogs, mildewed clothes. Every time the beach lifeguards put up the shark sighting signs Mr. Hon would go swimming.

It is obvious to me the husband would fit in just fine dining with the Zulus, chowing down on waterbuffalo in just a required loin cloth. He doesn't like to dress up much anyways. I think I should send in the deposit for the "Canoeing Through the Amazon African Safari Get-aWay" for my macho kind of husband!—by LAURA M. CLEGHORN

Fornero touches lives

Interviews

Judy Fornero, wife and mother of two teenagers (attending Mundelein High School), has been an active Mundelein resident for some 12 years. During this relatively short span of time, she has become well known in the area by having touched so many lives in one way or another.

One of her most meaningful projects was organizing the Bone Marrow Drive for Kent Klekow, Mundelein, in 1990. (Unfortunately, Kent was unable to be matched successfully and died a few months later). However, Judy and Rosemary Klekow joined forces and are often called upon by the Life Source organization, to help interested people organize a Bone Marrow Drive in their area. The ladies will travel anywhere in the Chicago area. Judy and Rosemary are also Co-Chairmen for the 1991 Community American Cancer Society and are optimistic about reaching this year's goal of almost $5,000.00. They have been successful in obtaining volunteers from the new subdivisions in the area. As Judy puts it, "Everyone has a friend or relative who has died of cancer. Life is too short. We have to try to save lives when we can."

The blood program began in 1987. As of late 1989, there were some 70,000 names in the Blood Doner Registry, with 300 successful transplants. Today, there are 300,000 people listed in the registry and the program is credited with 600 successful transplants.

Judy Fornero also became a familiar name amongst the parents of Dist. 75 as she was actively involved in school activities. At present, she is President of the Dist. 75 Educational Foundation which has scheduled a brunch, Fund Raiser, at the Country Squire, for June 30. Said Brunch will become an annual affair and proceeds will be used towards a Student Summer Grant Camp Scholarship for a student involved in a Science Enrichment Program. Six such scholarships have been granted in past years.

Last, but not least, Judy Fornero is an important member of a realty team, out of the Remax Suburban Realty, Libertyville, with her husband, Norman. Judy handles the marketing and advertising while Norm makes the appraisals and does the negotiations. They are known as, "The Real Estate Team That Covers Lake County." As far as Judy is concerned, her most important goals over the years have been to be the best wife and mother, to Norman and her children, Joe, 16 and Laura, 14, that she could be.—by VIRGINIA KRUEGER

How to save money calling home from overseas

by JIM WARNKEN, PRESIDENT NORTH STAR TRAVEL, INC.

Many first time travelers have been shocked to find an "outrageous" surcharge for long distance calls on their hotel bill here in the U.S. Well, unless you have phoned home from a hotel overseas, you don't know how outrageous a surcharge can be!

In many countries in Europe, a surcharge of 200 to 300 percent of the call is not unusual. Considering that a call home is an expensive proposition to start with, tripling it may cause you to have to skip a few meals. The answer is simple, don't call from your room. But what are your alternatives?

Pay phones are one choice. They won't look like the phone on the corner back home, but you will find them in most of Europe. Learning how to use them may also be a challenge, but that's all part of the fun of overseas travel! There's usually a set of instructions on the phone, and if you're lucky it will be in English.

Aside from pay phones, you can go to one of the phone company offices to call the folks back in Lake Villa. Just look for the symbol "TT" in most of Europe. In Switzerland and France, look for "PTT". You just walk in, give the clerk the number you wish to call and you will be directed to a special phone. When you finish your call, go back to the counter and pay your bill with no surcharge.

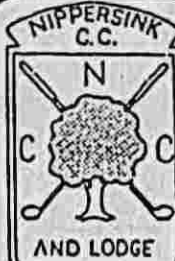

Post offices in many countries offer similar services. You may also find special phone centers at railroad stations or airports.

AT&T has been installing special phones at airports and cruise docks both overseas and in the Caribbean. You will be put directly in touch with an English speaking operator. You will also be billed at the prevailing rate in the U.S., which is usually less than the local rate. I have used these phones at the airport in Jamaica, the cruise dock in Nassau, and the airport in Munich, Germany.

If you still must call from your room, make a quick call to the overseas party and have them call back.

'Visit' - haunting dark side

Critic's Choice

A sense of justice and greed are human traits residing closer to the surface than many may expect.

In Friedrich Duerrenmatt's fine tragi-comedy, "The Visit," at Chicago's Goodman Theater, these two human characteristics wage a mighty battle. Set in a tiny, down-at-the-heels European town called Guellen, the play involves the triumphal visit of one Claire Zachanassian, who left the area a no-account but returns as the world's wealthiest woman.

The story is about the fabulous sum she dangles as a gift in exchange for the death of an old lover who did her wrong.

The set design and costuming are outstanding. There's no mistaking when a passenger train roars through--a thundering bolt of light visibly passes as a huge crossing gate descends.

With the lure of "boon for a body," a not-too-subtle transformation of the town and its inhabitants occurs as they splurge on new equipment, clothes, gourmet foods and other luxury items (all on credit, or course). Despite their protestations ("We're not in the jungle; we're in Europe.") everyone from the most destitute, unemployed resident of the town's leading citizens, including its mayor to its clergyman, gets caught up in the spending spree.

Josef Sommer, as Anton Schill, plays the role with surprising detachment considering he's the man in the hot seat. As a result, he fails to generate a lot of heart-felt sympathy.

And Rosalind Cash, as Claire--a surprising choice for the part to begin with--comes across as ominous, self-centered and vindictive. Where a little doubt as to her intent may have been warranted, she leaves none.

But these are minor shortcomings that fail to detract from the "The Visit's" haunting dark side. Performances run through June 2; ticket information is available at (312) 443-3800.—by TOM WITOM

Phil's Beach

through a public-address system mounted on their police car turned bluesmobile.

Although he wasn't part of the cast, Saturday Night Live castmate Bill Murray showed up to lend moral support.

"I didn't talk to them, but the kids were all around them," Lorraine said of the movie-makers. "Everybody knew they were coming. They'd shot at Long Grove and then they came here. Everybody was waiting for them to come, and it seemed like forever before they got here."

The movie crew spent a day at the beach, in addition to shooting some car-chase sequences at the intersection of Rte. 12 and Rte. 176.

"Belushi used to come to our place before — that's why they shot here," Lorraine explained.

But modern times were to kill Phil's

Beach. Our litigation-happy era has seen insurance costs for every endeavor skyrocket.

The last hoorah for Phil's Beach came with the 1989 season. Although Lorraine said it wasn't the final deciding factor, a lawsuit stemming from an accident that summer took a little more air out of the inner tube.

Although the Reillys contemplated opening for the 1990 season and again this summer, it just wasn't feasible. And, the joy was gone.

"It's just not the same," Lorraine said. "We missed it, but now we're getting used to it. It was just natural — spring comes, and you head over to the beach — there are things to be done."

There is a silver lining, however. Lorraine said the family plans to keep the property.

"We're enjoying it ourselves now."

'Switch' doesn't turn us on

Ellen Barkin, one of the sexiest blondes in filmdome, cavorts in the new Blake Edwards comedy "Switch," playing a guy returning as a gal.

It seems that Perry King, a notorious womanizer, is murdered for his sins against womankind by three of his old girlfriends.

When he gets to Purgatory, God and the Devil give him a chance to escape eternal damnation.

He agrees to return to earth as a woman and take up the hunt for at least one member of the feminine sex that thinks he's not all bad.

Of course he returns as Barkin. Here Edwards reveals either that he knows very little about the feminine sex or doesn't care.

Barkin's continual trouble with walking in high heels gets ridiculous. Edwards also fails to get deep enough into the rather traumatic experience of a too macho male suddenly experiencing the feelings of one of those he exploited for so many years.

Tv's "L. A. Law" hunk Jimmy Smits plays King's best friend who eventually sleeps with Barkin/King.

The most confusing thing about this movie, which could have been a great comedy farce but misses by at least half-a-mile, is that the audience never is really convinced either of Barkin's real feelings as a woman, or whether or not the man turned woman has feelings that lean towards either sex.

Neither Barkin or King seem to have the fine sense of timing that is necessary in making a comedy special.

We'll give "Switch" three out of five stars, worth seeing on video during summer reruns if you're a couch potato.—by GLORIA DAVIS

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Expect some favorable financial or career developments now. Tension with a close tie will be alleviated by week's end. Compromise. Put minor personal differences aside and enjoy happy times with friends. You may be invited to a gala event. By all means accept!

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Travel should be a lot of fun now, but watch dietary indiscretions. A loved one showers attention on you. Enjoy yourself. You'll be pleased about financial developments, but you shouldn't lend money to a friend. Save for a rainy day.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) You'll receive a valuable work lead. Investment hunches are on the money. The temptation to overextend credit must be checked. You'll receive happy news, but don't gossip. A short trip or a cultural activity will bring you much pleasure.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) You'll have a wonderful time with a romantic interest, but a relative will feel left out if not included in your plans. Slight tension exists with a family member. You'll find something that delights you if shopping now. Financial gain is likely.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Excitement about a work project keeps you busy now, but don't push beyond your limits. Luck is with you in domestic affairs. Save time for hobbies and recreational pursuits. A local visit has romantic overtones. Take no risks with money now.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Money is a touchy topic with a friend. It's best to keep your good fortune to yourself, as others will be envious. It's not a good time to seek advice, especially about creative work. You'll savor privacy now. Don't abuse credit.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Trust your intuition on the job. A slight difference with a loved one will be overcome. Don't mix business and social life. You'll have the chance to meet some interesting but unusual acquaintances. Avoid quibbling with relatives about trifles.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) A revised career plan is for the better. Be careful of detail now. Your glib tongue could offend someone now. You may feel a friend is inconsiderate. Evening hours are the best for socializing.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Children could get on your nerves. Find some time for peace and quiet. You are busy entertaining guests from out of town. Watch your tongue. Misunderstandings could occur with others. Domestic interests are highlighted. Spend more time with family.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Nagging will result if you keep putting off a task. Later, join loved ones in a recreational pursuit. Be less critical of a family member. Evening hours favor the enjoyment of hobbies and romance, but watch indiscreet actions.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) It will be difficult to concentrate on work until you rectify a difference with a close tie. Pick up the phone and say you're sorry. Don't spoil a good time by arguing about costs. Children respond to gentleness. Put the finishing touches on a creative project.

Someday, you may need special care for an elderly person you love. That's when you'll be glad you know about Hillcrest Retirement Village.

We offer therapy for the mind as well as the body. With activities that challenge both. From continuing education classes to daily exercise classes to arts, music and crafts.

It's not the warm, relaxed surroundings that make Hillcrest so special. It's the attitude that flourishes in such a pleasant atmosphere.

For a detailed brochure, write Hillcrest Retirement Village (an Intermediate Care Nursing Center), at 1740 N. Circuit Drive, Round Lake Beach, Illinois 60073. Or call Alan Rosenbaum at (708) 546-5301. It's a decision you would feel good about.

Players prepare season finale

The Kirk Players' 25th Anniversary Season grand finale, "The Murder Room," will be presented at the Mundelein High School theater on Friday and Saturday, June 14 and 15 at 8 p.m. All proceeds will be donated to the Lake County Arts Council.

"The Murder Room" is a glorious potpourri of Agatha Christie mystery, Monty Python humor, and Abbot and Costello antics! It's Zany author, Jack Sharkey, sets the scene in Yorkshire, England, at the small but stately estate of Master Edgar Hollister.

Sharkey embellishes the place with hidden rooms, secret panels, and ridiculously contrived trap lids. He then proceeds to lead his outrageous cast of characters through elaborate games of hide and seek, cops and robbers, and truth or dare. The rapid-fire repartee and maniacal sight gags just keep on coming!

The Kirk Players' Founder-Director John W. Lynn announced that the show's six member cast includes three fresh new talents.

Guest performer Jon Matousek of Mundelein portrays Edgar Hollister, the wealthy British patriarch who is reputed to be a bit of a tease; or is he? The newest Kirk Player member, Cynthia Petersen of Vernon Hills, will debut as Susan Hollister the sweetly innocent and slightly imbecilic daughter.

Also in her premier performance is Janet Walker of Third Lake who will leave her usual duties as property mistress to appear as Mrs. Lottie Molloy, the family's faithful and trusted housekeeper.

The balance of the cast features three Kirk Player veterans. Portraying Mavis Templeton Hollister, the sultry and manipulative she-devil, is Maureen Cook Slade of Mundelein. Also getting into the act is Maureen's husband, Russ Slade, who plays the very proper Inspector James Crandall of the Harrogate police. Another family member, Royden Slade also of Mundelein, completes the cast as Barry Draper the handsome young American millionaire!

The show is sponsored by the Lake County Arts Council and ticket prices are adults $5, students $3, Senior Citizens and children under twelve $2. They are available from representatives of the sponsoring organization, the Kirk Players, or may be purchased at the door. For further information call John Lynn at (708) 566-6594.

Raggs has new name, great new look, menu

A new name and a new look can be found at Raggs on Grand, formerly Alex's Pizza Pub, at 89 E. Grand Ave. in Fox Lake.

Ron and Donna Golding were partners in the Pizza Pub operation and when they became sole proprietors, they reopened under a new name after doing some remodeling of the dining room and extending the bar area.

Although it is larger, the bar area still features an intimate atmosphere that invites customers to drop in for drinks and stay for dinner or else to come for dinner and have a few drinks afterwards while watching tv or listening to Golden Oldies or some good Irish music.

While featuring the new excitement of LDR — Love Dem Ribs — some of the best baby back ribs served in the area, (they're mouth watering, chin-dripping, shirt-staining good!), the Golding's have maintained a menu that continues to feature the fine pasta dishes and pizza choices served by the Alexis for the past 20 years.

For diners that prefer to eat lighter, Raggs has an ample selection of appetizers and sandwiches and also "the best wings west of Buffalo;" mild — medium or hot — something for everyone's taste.

Ron and Donna and the rest of their friendly staff always greet customers with a smile, making sure each visit is a pleasant one.

Raggs on Grand is open six days a week, Tuesday through Sunday — never on Monday.

The hours on Monday through Thursday are 3 to 10 p.m.; Friday, 3 to 11 p.m.; Saturday, noon to 11 p.m. and on Sunday, noon to 9 p.m.

Charter fishing is great fun aboard 'Wandering Star'

"Fish On" is the cry we hoped to hear as we left Diversey Harbor with 10 other charter fishing boats captained by members of the Midwest Charter Assn. They ply Illinois waters searching for salmon with sport anglers from everywhere in the country.

Over 2,380,000 anglers fished Lake Michigan last year. These recreational sport fishing craft have helped make Lake Michigan a world recognized sport fishing mecca.

We were aboard the Wandering Star, Captained by Paul Armstrong. His dozen years of experience were obvious by our comfort, safety and catch. As we cruised from the harbor at 9 a.m., we four anglers were comfortable in high 60's temperature, overcast sky and maybe one foot swells, that increased somewhat as we passed the breakwaters, to head south along the world-famous skyline. It's a sight which makes Chicago's shoreline unforgettable.

As re revved up and moved toward our fishing location, Capt. Paul was instructing us in the procedure of catching Coho salmon, our target fish for the day, using six poles spaced across the stern of this 30-footer. Some lures trolled close to the surface while others on weighted downriggers dropped to 20 to 30 feet during our hunt.

The inexperience passenger is grateful for these careful instructions, while the experience, on their first "shakedown cruise" can profit by the valuable review.

Charter boats vary in size, equipment and procedure, and the captain's the boss at all times. He places lures on the lines from a vast selection, handles the landing net, and removes the hook form the catches mouth. Then he places it "in the box" as a keeper or back in the water to grow up.

Electronic equipment for navigation of the Wandering Star includes computer instruments that place the boat on a previously selected location. Another shows graphically the contours of the bottom, depths and any fish activity in between. They don't catch the fish, but make them a lot easier to locate.

Since one of the anglers was a lady, she had the first choice of a pumping pole that indicated "Fish On." Following Capt. Paul's instructions she did very well and the first Coho, a two pounder, was in the box in five minutes.

Everyone aboard congratulated her because it was also the first fish she had ever caught aboard ship.

A double first! We took turns after that and during the three hours allotted, boated 14 fish in the tow to four pound category, a weight at which they taste best, firm meat and no fatty tissues.

On return for the shore lunch supplied by the contesting crews, our catch was among the top in numbers and the anglers all caught three or more fish each. So the fishing rates tops for the limited time out but the eating back at the Diversey Yacht Club, cooked without freezing gives perhaps the best "mouthfeel" possible, especially since five contesting cooks were preparing their specialties.

There was no shortage of cooked fish, but we soon ran out of space to put it. We proved that inexperience is no disqualification and anyone who tries and enjoys the recreational adventure will enjoy the thrill of the catch and if really lucky, the taste of a fresh caught shore lunch prepared by competing chefs.

But fishing is good everywhere. I talked with Jerry Kachlik today about his experience with wife, Lorraine, on Wolf River in Wis. Two times a year they commute from home to Bayou Resort in Fremont, Wis. Jerry didn't want to brag, but the Kachliks returned with 489 stripers cleaned into 978 filets. "What do you do with all those filets?" I asked. "We eat quite a few" he admitted, "but mostly I play Santa Claus for my friends and neighbors."

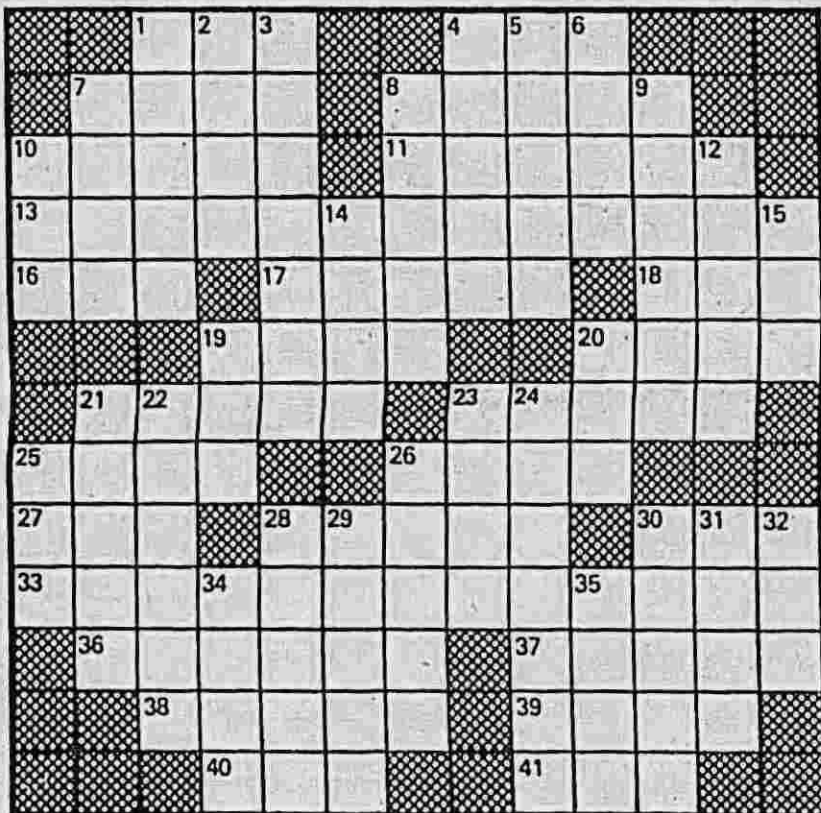

Capt. Paul Armstrong and Col. Bill

Catch the rhubarb early... then preserve it properly

Now is the time to plan for rhubarb pies and sauce for later in the year. Freezing is the quickest way to preserve rhubarb, according to Lake County Extension adviser Barbara Dahl. "Start by washing and trimming the tender-crisp stalks. Cut the stalks into 1-inch pieces, put them in a freezer container, and cover with a sugar syrup." A syrup of 3 1/2 cups sugar to 1 quart water is sweet enough for most tastes, Dahl says.

Another option is to mix in 1 cup dry sugar for every 7 or 8 cups of cut rhubarb. "If you know you'll be making pies, use 1 cup of sugar for every 4 cups cut rhubarb, Dahl suggests. "Be sure to label the package as extra-sweet pie mixture.

Of course, freezing raw rhubarb means you'll have to cook it before you use it later in the year. So you may choose to cook it into a sauce first, sweeten it to suit your taste, then pack and freeze it. A package of frozen rhubarb sauce mixed with an equal amount of applesauce is a favorite in some homes. Many homemakers would rather save their freezer space for strawberries and asparagus. Canning is another popular way to preserve fresh rhubarb.

"Cut washed and trimmed stalks into 1/2-inch pieces for canning," Dahl recommends. "Add 1/2 cup of sugar for every 4 cups of rhubarb and mix them thoroughly. Let the sugar-rhubarb mixture stand until juice collects in the pan. Slowly heat to boiling, stirring carefully so as not to mush the pieces. Pour the hot mixture into prepared jars. Wipe rim and adjust new two-piece canning lids. Process pint or quart jars for 15 minutes in boiling water, counting from when the water reaches a full rolling boil. Remove the jars at the end of the process time and cool them away from drafts; then label and store them."

Rhubarb juice may also be canned now for later use in fruit jellies. You may sweeten the juice before you can it and adjust the sugar in the jelly recipe later, or can the juice unsweetened. To extract the juice, add 2 quarts of water to every 10 pounds of trimmed, chopped rhubarb. Heat slowly until water boils. Drain into jelly bag and squeeze juice through. Reheat juice to simmering (140 degrees F) and pour into clean hot jars. Leave 1/4-inch headspace and adjust lids. Process 15 minutes for pints or quarts in boiling water. Or pre-sterilize jars and fill with boiling juice and process 5 minutes.

Dahl cautions to be careful of the leaves when cutting rhubarb stalks. The leaves contain toxic compounds that can cause severe internal irritation and can cause death.

Bronze birch borers

Now is the time to control bronze birch borers in northern Illinois, says Pam Cater, horticulture adviser for Lake County Cooperative Extension. The bronze birch borer attacks white bark birch, but does not damage the river birch species.

In winter, the bronze birch borer hibernates beneath the bark. In the spring, the larvae completes growth and pupates. Adults emerge in late May and their egg laying period extends into June. Eggs are laid singly, in cracks of the birch tree bark. Often the egg laying site is an area of bark damage. The batching borers tunnel beneath the bark to feed.

Tree injury results from the girdling of the branches and the trunk by the feeding borers. The earliest symptom of borer damage to a white birch tree usually appears in the top of the tree, yellowed leaves, sparse foliage and limbs with swollen areas are all symptoms of borer attack.

Evidence suggest bronze birch borers cannot survive in healthy trees. Most white birch trees in landscape plantings come under stress during some growing seasons. Although fertilizing, watering and mulching aid in birch survival, chemical control is also necessary of white birches are to be saved. Severely damaged trees may not recover.

To get more information about chemical controls for bronze birch borers, call the Lake County Cooperative Extension Service at (708)223-8627.

Over a lifetime, the average American throws away 600 times his or her body weight in garbage—more than 90,000 pounds of trash! Recycling just 10 percent of your garbage can reduce that amount by four-and-a-half tons.

Turn leaves, grass clippings into nutrient rich mulch

As the battle rages on about how to dispose of leaves, grass clippings and other yard waste, environmentally concerned homeowners have found an alternative to bagging lawn debris and leaving it curbside—recycling unwanted twigs and brush into nutrient-rich mulch.

Mulch works wonders in the garden by helping to retain moisture and reducing soil erosion. Or it can be added to the soil as a natural, organic fertilizer. A good layer of mulch can help extend the growing season by a few weeks as well. And though it won't keep the ground from freezing, mulch will protect the roots of annuals, perennials, trees and shrubs.

If recycling yard debris sounds like a backbreaking chore, you can rest easy. Versatile garden machines are easy and safe to use, and soon may be a necessary addition in every tool shed. These machines can be purchased at your local hardware store or home center.

At last count 10 states have banned the disposal of leaves or other types of yard waste. In addition, as many as 30 states have passed or are considering passing legislation to keep leaves and grass clippings out of public landfills. Garden debris alone accounts for an incredible 20 to 30 percent of our trash. The time definitely has come for gardeners to dig themselves out from under the waste-stream buildup.

An electric chipper/shredder/mulcher is a quick and efficient three-stage chipping system that reduces twigs and branches up to two inches in diameter into attractive, uniformly-sized chips that can be placed in garden beds.

There are a variety of ways to use chips in the garden. They make decorative pathways and borders in landscaped areas. In fact, many homeowners prefer them to gravel in driveways. A two-to-four-inch layer chips placed around new flower beds prevents weeds from germinating and eliminates the need to buy chemical weed killers.

Recycled wood chips have a two-year life span before they begin to decompose. Generally, the harder the wood, the longer the chips will last. Even decomposing, mulch has value. It adds nutrients to the soil, makes it looser and more friable, enhances living conditions for beneficial microorganisms and helps prevent soil-borne diseases from spreading.

More and more homeowners, even those who don't yet have to, are turning to recycling. It's a responsible, cost-effective way to rid the yard of waste and put the materials to good use.

Talking Tees tell tale of growing business

by GREG MILLER
Lakeland Newspapers

Can love and business flourish together within a marriage?

Will the aforementioned business continue to grow, forcing yet another move?

Are Sam and Dave Kitto the duet of rhythm and blues fame?

Will Pops demand a pay raise?

Can you find a bunch of neat stuff at Talking Tees in Round Lake?

Stay tuned for the answers to these questions and more as this story continues.

Ten years ago, Sam (nee Sandra) Kitto was looking for a way to make some extra cash while husband Dave plied the carpenter's trade.

Sam got together with a friend who held T-shirt parties — similar to Tupperware get-togethers — in her home. Her friend eventually opened a retail outlet, and Sam bought in as a silent partner.

Sam called Dave, who was working on contract in Cape Cod, and his advice was "Go for it!"

She liked the business so much that she really went for it in 1982 when she bought out her friend and named the enterprise "Talking Tees."

Talking Tees, 305 W. Rollins Rd. in Round Lake (at the corner of Cedar Lake Rd.), will provide you with a way to tell the world with whom you're affiliated, to whom you owe your allegiances — or just what you think about things in general.

But that's not all.

Beginning with simple T-shirt transfers, Sam and Dave moved into silk-screening. In the early days, they did the silk-screening in their home because their retail outlet was too small for production purposes.

"We decided to try silk-screening ourselves," Sam said. "We started in the dining room, and the shirts started to line up out of the dining room and in front of the couch."

A houseful of freshly decorated T-shirts was enough to tell them a bigger store was needed. They rented a store in the Eagle plaza on Rollins Road, and Dave gave up carpentry to become a full-time entrepreneur.

Their business continued to grow, forcing another move to their present location about six weeks ago. It was a time of necessity as well as opportunity.

"This place is twice the size for the same money, our lease was up and it was time to consider moving," Sam explained. "And, we were really tripping over each other."

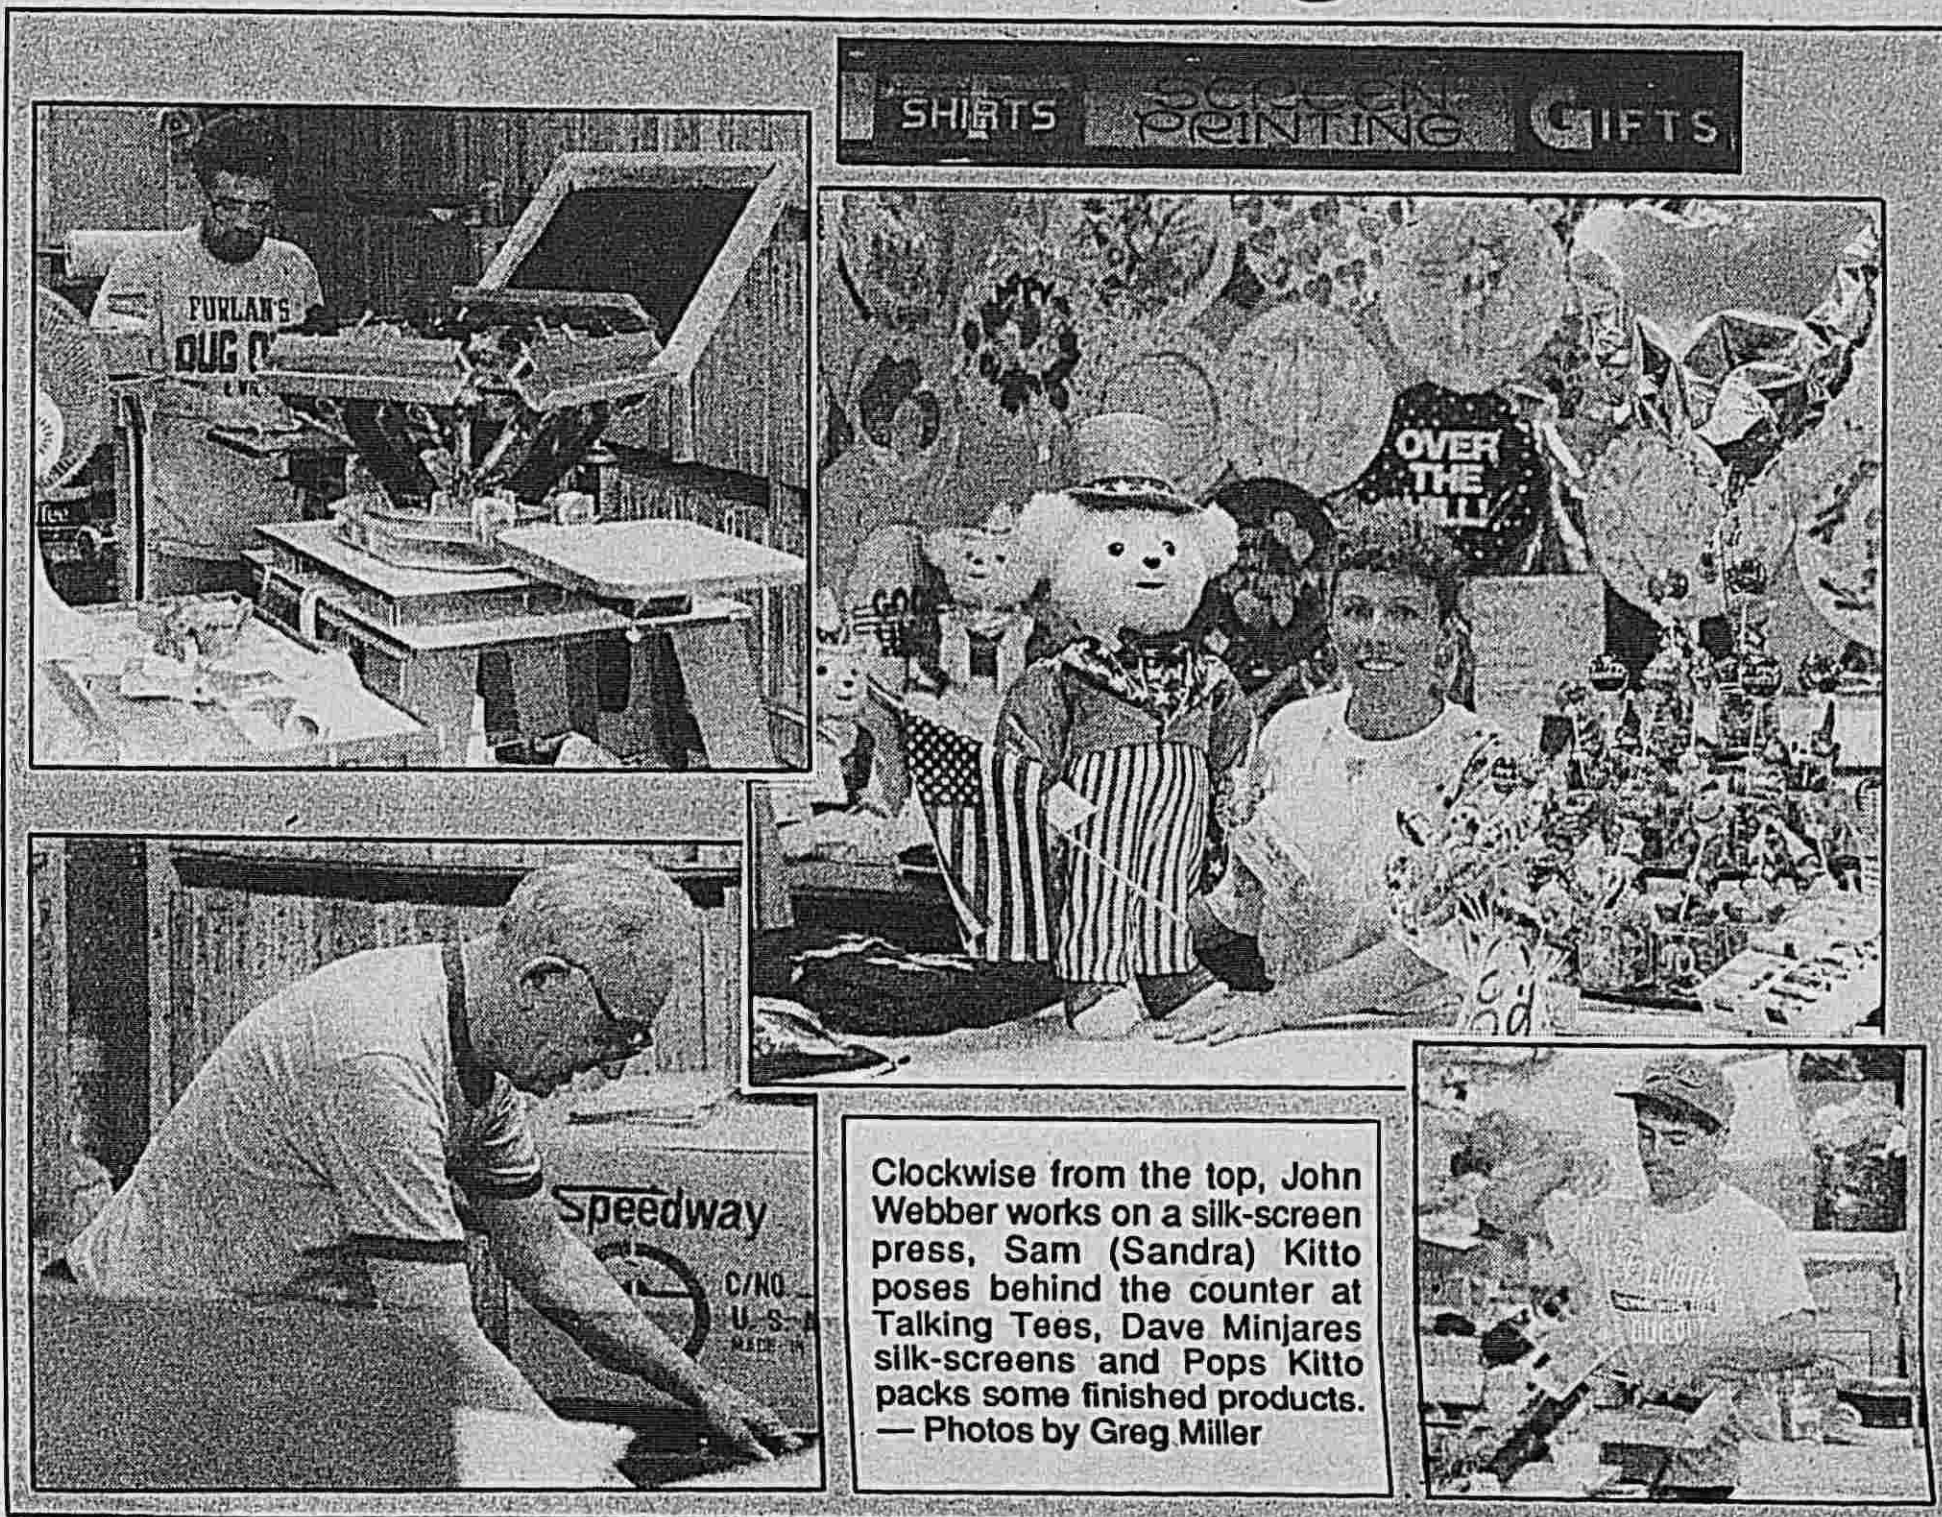

Talking Tees now offers a wide range of personalized sportswear — T-shirts, jackets, sweats, shorts, hats, athletic uniforms — and gifts. The personalizing process takes place on premises. Another offering is one-of-kind "marble-ized" shirts, which are made using the same principal as tie-dyeing.

"We used to job-out some of the work and we didn't have as much control over it," Sam said. "To ensure quality, we need to do it ourselves."

Nine full-time and two part-time employees work in four distinct departments — retail, custom silk-screening, art and custom monogramming.

For instance: You want to outfit your softball team. You've either got a logo or the idea for a logo. Talking Tees will secure the uniforms and install any logo, team name or individual names with silk-screening and/or monogramming.

Talking Tees will do the same with just about anything your heart desires. There's plenty of sportswear in the store from which to choose.

If you just want to spread the word, Talking Tees has a big selection of transfers. If they don't have your particular message on hand, they've got catalogues to help track down that perfect personal statement.

Dave and son Dave Jr. handle the art end.

"They both had the capabilities — they just developed them," Sam said. "A customer will come in with an idea or a sketch, and we'll refine it. After the customer approves it, we'll put it on."

Sam does the monogramming, and Dave's dad, Pops Kitto, spends his summers away from his Denver home helping out at the store. Sam and Dave's daughter, Tammy, specializes in original hand-decorated outfits.

A major cog in the machine is Maria Ramos, who's "been with us from the start," Sam said. John Webber and Dave Minjares do the silk-screening.

"We've been really lucky with our employees," Sam said. "They're really dedicated."

Sam said Talking Tees' growth has been customer-initiated.

"Our customers forced us to grow — their needs created our growth," Sam said. "Our customers requested different things from us and caused us to grow."

"We specialize in personal service. Every customer is very special and very different. We try to give them professional and personal service."

Along those lines, Sam said they're made for emergencies. Although it usually takes two to three weeks to get a whole team's worth of uniforms done, rules are made to be broken.

"We do things quicker if it's an emergency," Sam said. "It's an emergency to them (the customer), and that's what counts."

Sam would like customers looking for a personalized gift to think of Talking Tees as a one-stop proposition. That's why they've added other gifts and the popular Mylar balloons to their inventory.

"If someone comes in to buy a 30th-birthday shirt, they can get a balloon here, too."

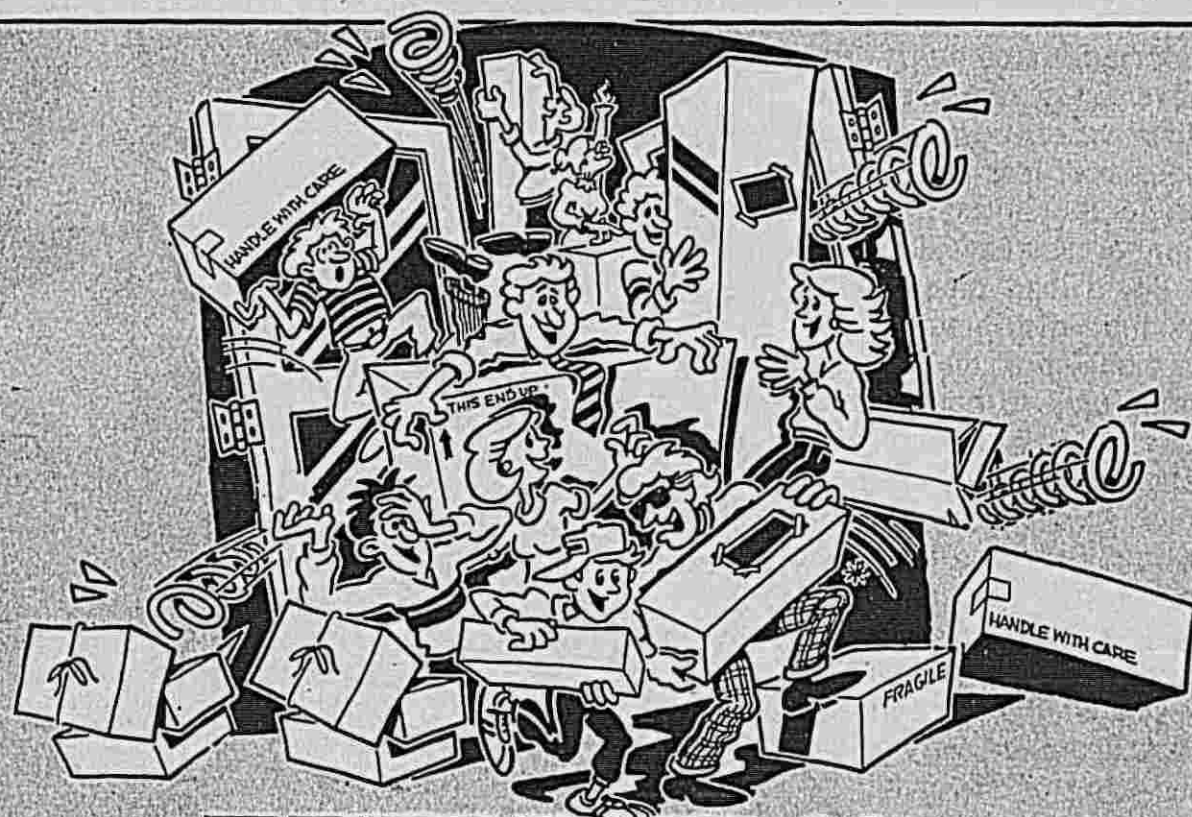

The answer to the first question at the beginning of this story is "yes."

"A lot of people didn't think we'd make it marriage-wise," Sam said. "But somehow, we've been able to get along as husband and wife and as business partners."

The answers to the rest of the questions are it's too early to tell; no; he might if they work him too hard; and yes, you sure can.

Understanding mutual funds fees makes investor informed

by TERRANCE R. GAERTNER

In discussing mutual fund investing with my clients, I have noted that there is often a great deal of confusion regarding the various fees charged by mutual funds. In order to make an informed mutual fund investment decision, I think it is important that you understand the various fees you will be paying.

annual fees charged by the load funds that we use. This is because the no load fund is not able to recoup its distribution costs via an up front sales charge.

From the investor's point view, you must look at the combination of both the up front cost (the load) and the annual fees. You should estimate the number of years that you intend to stay in the fund and then compute pany for individuals financial experts are invited by writing or 2203 B Lakeside Dr., Bannockburn, IL 60015.

This way to wealth

There are three basic types of mutual fund fee structures available today:

1. The load fund (includes an up front sales charge but no surrender costs).

2. The no-load fund (no up front costs and no surrender costs).

3. The rear loaded fund (no up front costs but includes a surrender charge usually over the first six years).

All three types of funds have annual fees that are paid by the investors. These fees are discussed in the fund's prospectus and you should read through the prospectus prior to investing.

Because of their high annual fees, I usually do not recommend that people invest in rear loaded funds.

Let's look at the merits of the load fund versus the merits of the no-load fund. This is a hotly debated subject and I have some definite opinions on the issue.

First, you must realize that every mutual fund sold today has some "distribution costs" associated with its sale. For the no-load fund families, this distribution cost is in the form of an "in-house" salaried sales staff and advertising expense. This distribution cost or some portion of it is then passed on to the investor in the form of their annual fees.

For a load fund family, the main distribution cost is in the form of the commissions paid to outside brokers who sell their products. These distribution costs are also paid for by the investor. But for a load fund this cost is paid for at the time of purchase via the up front sales charge. The investor is also receiving the broker's advice and ongoing servicing of his or her account.

In most cases, the annual fees charged by no-load funds are higher than the your total costs for a fair comparison of fees.

For example, one of the more popular stock funds that we broker has an annual fee of just over 0.5 percent and a maximum up front sales charge of 5.75 percent. This up front sales charge is reduced as the amount invested is increased.

The national average annual fee for all available stock mutual funds is just over one percent per year. So if you intend to hold your mutual fund for 12 years or longer, the savings in annual fees (0.5 percent x 12-6 percent) means that you actually pay less in fees by purchasing the front load fund. The break-even holding period is reduced by several years for each "break point" that you reach by investing larger sums since this reduces the up front sales charge.

An easy way to compare fees and performances is to use an independent mutual fund rating service such as Mutual Fund Values by Morningstar. We have this service in our office and would be happy to provide any of our readership with copies of a fund's analysis.

I must emphatically point out, however, that the biggest mistake an investor can make is to ignore investment performance while feeling that he or she received a "good deal" on fees.

THE WORLD'S MOST COMPLICATED MACHINE DOESN'T COME WITH AN OWNER'S MANUAL.

SO WHAT DO YOU
DO WHEN IT BREAKS DOWN?

When most machines break down, you go straight to your owner's manual. When your body breaks down, you go straight up the wall. Unless you know about ASK-A-NURSE® ASK-A-NURSE has something many health care hotlines don't: registered nurses. Because they're specially trained, our nurses can advise you on how to handle colicky babies, funny rashes, burns, cramps, headaches and other technical difficulties. They can even help you find doctors who suit your needs. And you can talk to them free, 24 hours a day.

It just goes to show: although your body is the most complex machine on earth, all you may need to fix it is one of the simplest. Your telephone.

Gurnee bank gets 4 stars

Gurnee National Bank has been awarded its four-star rating. This prestigious award identifies Gurnee National Bank as one of the strongest, creditworthy banks in the United States, based on an analysis of the September 30, 1990 financial data as filed with federal regulators.

A four-star rating indicates that the bank's adjusted tangible capital is between 6 percent and 9 percent of tangible assets, that there are no excessive delinquencies or repossessed assets and that the bank is profitable. The four-star rating is most often awarded to community banks and strong regional banks, well-capitalized, federally insured banks that serve their local markets.

VAN HORN

OVERALL DIMENSIONS: 56'-6" X 37'-0"
LIVING: 1687 square feet
GARAGE: 528 square feet

VAN HORN (400-15)
By Landmark Designs, Inc.

The Van Horn is a cozy two-story contemporary home with a country flavor.

While both the entryway and living room are vaulted to the second floor, the living room ceiling seems even higher because the room is two steps lower than the foyer. Stairs on the left lead to a balcony at the second floor landing, which overlooks the living room — a fine vantage point for checking out activities below.

The rest of the group living area, which includes a large family kitchen, family room, dining nook, is at the same level as the living room, but without vaulted ceilings. A utility room is also on this level, tucked behind a handy half-bath.

Additional counter space and an eating bar are created by placement of the range top in a uniquely shaped work island. Hanging plants will flourish in the sunny nook, making it an attractive setting for meals, snacks and conversation. Access to a deck is through the family room.

Sleeping areas are upstairs. Amenities in the master suite include a 6-foot-wide window seat, a large walk-in closet and a private bath with oversized shower. To ease early morning traffic jams, the basin is located in a separate dressing area outside of the water closet. The other two bedrooms share a bathroom with combined tub and shower.

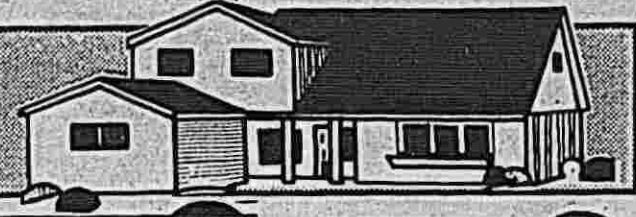

For a study plan of the VAN HORN (400-15), send $7.50 to Landmark Designs, P.O. Box 2307, Eugene, OR 97402. (Be sure to specify plan name & number when ordering.) Designers, Architects and readers with plans they would like to see featured also are invited to contact Landmark.

Grant's Gallinati clears barriers with new pole

A new pole here, a little bit more determination there proved to be the formula that worked for many area boys track and field athletes who qualified for this weekend's state finals at Eastern Illinois University in Charleston.

The athletes had to overcome horrendous weather conditions as well as the stopwatch and opponents as a medium to light rain fell on a cold Grayslake High.

Mike Gallinati and Libertyville's Joe Farmer engaged in a fierce battle in the pole vault, and each ended up with a 12 foot, six inches as their best effort. But Gallinati was given first place due to fewer misses.

"He started using the new pole a few weeks ago. It is heavier in weight than the old pole," Grant Coach Sam Spasojevich said.

Spasojevich did say the new pole did mean some adjustments for Gallinati, who has cleared 13 feet. "It's more physical," Spasojevich said.

Also qualifying for Grant was Demian Vela in the high jump. Like Gallinati, Vella tied for top honors, but he finished second at 6-1.

"It depends on the person," Vella, an Ingleside resident, said of the weather's impact.

For the second straight year the meet was held at GCHS and the Waukegan swud took home top honors again.

Waukegan had 69 points, Libertyville was next with 29, followed by Zion-Benton with 24, Stevenson with 14.5, North Chicago with 14, Carmel and Antioch had 13. Grant led Northwest Suburban Conference teams with 10 points, Warren had 9.5, Lake Zurich 5.5, Round Lake four, Mundelein two and host Grayslake 1.5.

Antioch, Libertyville and Carmel battled for the honors in the 3,200 meter relay, one of few events which saw more than the minimum advance to EIU.

Carmel had an early lead, but Libertyville and then Antioch eventually caught the Corsairs. Libertyville clocked an 8:24.4, while Antioch had an 8:29 and Carmel had an 8:39.1.

"I was impressed with Carmel. They had three strong runners, but they just did not have a fourth," Antioch Coach Norm Hahn said.

A Carmel runner was injured and coach Jim Halford had to go with a replacement. "We had three guys who ran real well. We thought we would need a 70 meter lead and we had a 40," Halford said.

Libertyville coach Ron Phillips was pleased with his team's efforts and said the weather was no factor. Jim Duncan, a sophomore, who both the 100 and 200 meter dashes, Chris Brown topped Carmel's Matt Stasick in the 3,200 meter run and was second in the 1,600 meter run.

Jeff Rojewski was second in the 800 meter run and Mundelein's Glenn Schoda qualified with a third-place finish.

Libertyville was second in the 1,600 meter relay.

Lake Zurich's John Christensen was second in the high hurdles with Dan Lotspeich finishing third.

North Chicago's highlight was Ozzie Young winning the long jump. There were some athletes who had their seasons ended with disqualifications. Stevenson soph Pat Joyce's 1,600 meter run was not allowed because he wore an illegal jersey under his uniform.

Velotta, Daniels share spotlight at state track

by STEVE PETERSON
Lakeland Newspapers

One day at practice last week, when post-season plans were being finalized, Warren Twp. High School Coach Julie Cadieux told her state qualifiers the top eight finishers receive medals and the top nine go onto the final round.

"I want eighth," Katrina Daniels said with a smile.

When Saturday concluded, Daniels was holding not an eighth place medal, but one for sixth.

For Molly Velotta, the state track and field meet was a successful way to end a high school sports career which featured two spring sports.

Velotta was third in the 3,200 meter run and sixth in the 1,600 meter run. Daniels, a junior, placed fourth in the 400 meter dash.

Velotta ran the mile in 5:11.1 and came back to run the mile in 11.9.

"I think she started to like the mile. Running two races in two days in a row, her legs were a little tired," Libertyville Coach Harry Carlson said of Velotta.

Velotta, a senior and former soccer player, finished behind Wheeling's Amy Siegel and McHenry's Erin Boland in the 3,200. "She felt she could catch them, she had confidence in her pace, but the gap was just too big," Carlson said.

"I'd say she is a power quarter-miler. She has a lot of strength, and working in weight training and running in physical education class and running cross country and that is paying off," Cadieux said.

She was the sixth fastest in her preliminary heat Friday. "She was realistic about her chances. Her goal was to get a medal," Cadieux said.

Both teams had relay teams at the state meet, but neither placed.

Libertyville finished with nine team points.

Warren's 800 medley relay of Latashia Watkins, Shelley Bendery, Terra Reed and Daniels had a mishap with an exchange between Watkins and Daniels.

"Katrina and Latashia mishandled the exchange. We were right in it in our heat. The baton flew backwards and Daniels had to go back a few yards and pick it up. You could see the disappointment in her face, but she still passed one girl ahead of her of the eight," Cadieux said.

For Warren, the season was the best since the Blue Devils won the Northwest Suburban Conference titles in 1980 and 1982.

"They were inexperienced and a little nervous and did not get off to a good start," Carlson said of the 1,600 meter relay team. But only one senior is on the squad.

Freshman Jenny Tenner, sophomores Stacy Krusey and Kathryn Calebresa and senior Molly Nelson comprise the squad.

Heading for Charleston

Lake Zurich's John Christensen heads toward the finish line in the 300 meter intermediate high hurdles at Grayslake track and field sectional. Christensen beats Zion-Benton's Tarellus Griffen to the tape. State finals are at Eastern Illinois University in Charleston May 24 and 25.

CHS kickers win crown

Maybe for the Fremd sectional, Carmel girls soccer coach April Mueller can convince her Corsairs that the start of the contest is really the second quarter, not the first.

For the Corsairs had to brush off the pre-game nerves before claiming their second straight Girls Catholic Athletic Conference (GCAC) title with a 3-1 win over St. Viator Saturday.

"The girls were a little nervous to start the game, and when it was 1-0, I was a little nervous, too. We knew we had beaten them 4-0 in the regular season," Carmel Coach Mueller said.

Carmel, which beat Marrillac 5-2 to gain the match against St. Viator, opened Fremd sectional play against Wauconda Tuesday. The Corsairs downed Wauconda 4-3 in the regular season.

The Corsairs, after surrendering a first-quarter goal to St. Viator's Mellisa Kolak held the Lions in check until the offense could get together. "We lost our regular goalkeeper (Kim Starzec) early in the season and we really didn't have a backup, but Ann (Bretzlauf) said she would give it a try. She has really improved in the net and gained more confidence," Mueller said.

Bratzlauf recorded two shutouts.

Kristen Konen scored the game-tying goal for the Corsairs in the second quarter. Kathy Sassin then tallied the go-ahead score.

In the final quarter, Carmel scored an insurance goal as Carolyn Curley knocked home a Laura Sturgeon miss.

MHS claims softball title

Sometimes, the more things change, the more they stay the same.

Just ask the Mundelein girls softball team. The Mustangs started the season with several new faces and a new coach, but are ending the regular season the way most Mundelein softball teams have - on top in the North Suburban Conference standings.

Mundelein improved to 15-3 in the NSC, clinching the conference crown with two wins over Fenton last week. Mundelein is the first seed and has a bye for the first round of the Barrington regional.

"The biggest asset of this team has been its attitude," Mundelein Coach Perry Wilhelm, who is in his first year, said.

Mundelein, which started the week with the best softball record among area teams at 21-7, had a seven-run sixth inning to hold off Fenton 11-4 in the Thursday tilt.

Heidi Miller was the winning pitcher, improving her mark to 12-4.

Terilyn Starkey could not catch for the Mustangs because of a wrist injury, but did manage to get two hits. Deanna Deal had four hits for Mundelein.

Carmel hopes tourney breaks a losing streak

Carmel's baseball team had a chance at the start of the week to shake things up in the East Suburban Catholic Conference race.

In the end, the Corsairs found out why Marian Catholic is the league champs and Notre Dame was up there contending as the Corsairs dropped three of four games to the league leaders.

Carmel started the final week before this weekend's Waukegan regional with a 9-4 win over Notre Dame.

The Corsairs then lost to the Dons 14-4 before dropping two to Marian Catholic, 4-1 and 3-1. The Corsairs, 15-14 overall, finished the league season at 8-10. Carmel, the fourth seed, battled Zion-Benton in a first round game of the Waukegan regional Thursday. Winners advance to Bowen Park May 25.

"We made some costly mistakes," Carmel Coach Chuck Gandolfi said.

On a wet and chilly

Saturday in May, Marian's Reed Hensley didn't make any mistakes, at least not through five innings as he had a no hitter going. Even when Carmel reached him for two hits - by Dan Gramm and Dan Devito in the sixth, he responded by striking out the next two batters.

Carmel had gained a 1-0 lead when Gramm walked and scored in the first.

Marian tied the game in the third as Hensley helped himself with a single. Tim Tilton singled in the fourth and scored on on Carmel error. Tilton also scored the game's winning run in the sixth on a walk, stolen base and sacrifices.

Carmel did have an excellent chance in its sixth. Gramm laid down a bunt down the third base line and slid to beat the tag at first base, breaking up the no-hit bid. Devito singled and Todd Staehle walked, giving the Corsairs a bases-loaded situation. But Hensley bore down, striking out the next two hitters.

Carmel's catcher Tony Allport was injured early in the game as a pitch hit him in the elbow. He was taken to Condell Memorial Hospital for X-rays.

Against Notre Dame, the second game featured a top pitcher, the Dons' Tony Opiola. Opiola was just good enough to keep Carmel hitters guessing. "Today was a day we could have beaten him. He was not as sharp as he has been," Gandolfi said.

"I look for him to be one of the best pitchers in the area next year," Notre Dame Coach Dan Hogan said of Opiola, a junior.

Bob Raschillo led the Notre Dame 16-hit attack with a four-for-four day.

Notre Dame scored four runs in the first and added another in the second. Carmel answered with two in the second and third innings. Allport and Gramm led Carmel's eight-hit attack with two each. In the 9-4 win, Staehle had two-for-four with three

RBI's. Eric Bruksch was two-for-three, Gramm three-for-four. The Corsairs scored five in the sixth after taking a 3-0 lead in the third. Carmel had 13 hits.

Ready to make tag

Carmel's Dan Gramm is set to make a tag as Notre Dame's Bob Raschillo tries to slide into second. Shortstop Todd Staehle is ready to back up. Carmel is fourth seed in the Waukegan regional. Semi-final action is May 25 at Bowen Park. - Photo by Joe Shuman.

Birds bring beauty to your garden

Make your garden inviting to various kinds of birds and you'll enjoy more of its natural beauty, says the Garden Council, a national group of firms and professionals representing the lawn and garden industry. And the organization notes that the sounds, colors, and movements of birds will add interest to your landscape year 'round.

The experts on the council tell homeowners to create a welcoming atmosphere by planning wisely. They say that the best way to invite birds to nest is by providing food, shelter, and water. If you don't have a pond or stream on your property, a bird bath will serve as a good source of water. Put it where trees and shrubs will provide protective cover and be sure to keep it filled with plenty of fresh water.

A protective environment is essential for building nests, and some plants provide both shelter and food. The council suggests that you select such dual-purpose trees and shrubs as dogwoods, crabapples, hawthorns, pines, cedars, hollies, viburnums, and honeysuckles.

After you've identified your yards' best features for attracting birds, begin to enhance them. Council members say you should take a cue from nature. The edges of the forest or open meadow attract birds because the greatest diversity of plant life occurs in those places. Recreate this environment in your own yard by providing a variety of trees, shrubs, and flowers.

The quick way to transform wide-open lawns into bird habitats is to disregard the rule about properly spacing trees during installation. Instead, plant a cluster of fast-growing trees. Under a lone shade tree plant shrubbery and flowers. Put shrubs in as a background for your flower bed and accent it with a small fruiting tree.

The council's professionals believe you should let your garden reflect your own style and taste, whether formal or informal. Birds can't discern design elements. They prefer a variety of plants of seasonal interest, just as you do.

Recycling grass clippings

There are some definite advantages for not bagging your grass clippings: No expensive trash bags to buy and no mower bag to empty, according to Pam Cater, horticulture adviser for the University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service, Lake County Office in Grayslake.

Grass clippings help:

- reduce water evaporation from the lawn
- reduce lawn wear by providing a cushioning layer

- provide nutrients to the lawn

- keep the soil temperature cooler in the summer

Grass clippings do not cause thatch buildup. Thatch is made up of the roots, rhizomes and dead leaf sheaths of grass, not the clippings.

Grass clippings make great mulch for vegetable and flower gardens. They can greatly reduce the amount of weeding needed.

Grass clippings treated with an herbicide should not be used for mulch.

Feed your garden

After a spring rain your plants need food. Hunger usually strikes plants after spring's first growth spurt because they've used up whatever energy they've stored.

Container plants that get frequent watering need feeding every two to three weeks to replace nutrients that have been leached from the soil.

Herbs: Here, there and everywhere

Each and every day someone, somewhere finds a new and innovative use for easy-to-grow, multi-purpose herbs. In fact, there are nearly as many herbs as there are uses for them.

Everyone knows that herbs are ideal for spicing up soups, stews, vinegars, jellies and relishes, and that the right herb can add zest to fish, meat and poultry. Quite frequently, a common herb is the "secret ingredient" grandmother talked about at the dinner table.

But herbs — actually parts of herbs, such as flowers, leaves, roots, seeds and bark — can be counted on for more than improving the flavor of food. Many doctors suggest eucalyptus herbal rubs or balms for their patients with strained muscles or mild back problems. Herbs often are used for cosmetic purposes or artistic endeavors. People love to drink chamomile or scented geranium herbal teas and unwind from a hard day's work in a relaxing bath accentuated with sweet flag or sweet violet.

The appealing fragrance of dried herbs entices many either to buy or make their own potpourris, sachets and wreaths, which boast a long-lasting herbal aroma. Mint and rosemary are among the most popular herbs for this purpose.

In fact, the only thing most people who find some use for herbs don't seem to know about them is that they are among the easiest of all plants to grow. Gardeners appreciate the variety of shapes, sizes and colors in which herbs come, and put them to use in decorative containers or rock gardens, or as groundcovers. When matched with annuals and perennials, herbs help make eye-catching additions to beds and borders. Many herbs spread quickly. A physical barrier, such as a landscape fabric, helps confine them.

Some herbs take less effort to grow than others, so it's important to decide before starting how much effort you intend to put forth. If you have time to spend, begin from seed. Otherwise purchase started seedlings or rooted cuttings. When planted, these tend to take root quickly, enabling the gardener to reap their benefits early.

Planting seedlings is a relatively simple process. Most herbs prefer full exposure to sun, though some require shade. For instance, dill (Anethum graveolens), Roman Chamomile (Chamaemelum nobile), chives (Allium schoenoprasum), parsley (Petroselinum crispum), English Lavender (Lavandula angustifolia), and coriander (Coriandrum sativum) all thrive in full sun.

Among the herbs that grow better in partial shade are mint (mentha spp.), tarragon (Artemisia dracunculoides), chervil (Anthriscus cerefolium), thyme (Thymus vulgaris), and rosemary (Rosmarinus officinalis). Herbs also vary as to their soil requirements. Some grow well in rich soil, others in moderately rich or sandy soil. And all have different watering needs. Specific planting directions should come with the seedling package. If not, ask the nursery salesperson or contact your local extension agent.

Light fertilizing in the spring with an all-natural fertilizer high in nitrogen helps herbs get off to a good start, but over-fertilizing results in large plants with less flavor and reduced aroma.

When planting seedlings between larger annuals or perennials, lay down a landscape fabric in order to limit the herbs' spreading capabilities. A superior fabric also moderates soil temperature, which helps conserve moisture.

Once your herbs are growing well, parts can be pruned as needed, as long as enough foliage remains to allow regeneration. Herbs are best pruned on a cool, shade-filled day. This enables the plant to recover before it must face a full sun again. Leaves for drying should be pruned to the plant's flowering. Toss away damaged or diseased leaves and wash the good ones in cool water. Store them on a tray or rack out of the sun. Too much light ruins the flavor and bleaches the color. Next, crush the dried leaves and store away from light, perhaps in a freezer, until needed.

Herbs have been around for a million years, and hopefully will be for a million more. They're versatile and hardy, and with a little preparation, easy to grow. Whatever your need, there's bound to be an herb that's perfect for you.

special education programs.

"If we're going to be tarred with that brush, we better get some clout and help with these programs," he said.

He expressed concern that the existing tax structure is too dependent on property taxes, creating a sometimes insurmountable burden on people on fixed incomes and resistance from property owners. He advocates a more inclusive system in which all income is taxed generating a more balanced system between income-levels.

Public resistance was felt by Dist. 117 in April when voters turned down a $29.9 million referendum for construction of a new school building.

"We can't afford not to have one," Blecke said, "the kids are here and the worst thing we could do is not educate them because we'll pay more in the long run."

Within the cramped halls and insufficient cafeteria space, students are also dealing with expanded peer pressure, according to Blecke.

"I think the pressures from modern society are greater than they used to be," said Blecke, "unfortunately, I think there's a lot of pressure on not being smart. They've got to be cool rather than smart."

Blecké attributes this attitude largely to the influence of television and what he refers to as an "entertainment society."

"Kids expect to be entertained rather than find ways to entertain themselves," he said, "I think the kids expect to be entertained in school and the teachers are not trained to be entertainers."

With a wary eye on the future of the education system and on specific concerns at ACHS, Blecke is prepared to keep himself entertained during his retirement. He takes with him many awards and plaques, including Secondary School Principal of the Year in 1987, recognizing his distinctive service.

After 42 years in education, he plans to research the local golf courses with his wife, June. A list of "honey-do" jobs, as in Honey do this, Honey do that, also await him.

Grayslake bats stay hot, Rams claim third in loop

It may have taken a while this time, but over the course of the 1991 baseball season Grayslake pitcher

Steve Siedlecki has been a force which must be considered. The Rams hurler picked up his sixth win in seven Northwest Suburban Conference tries last week as Grayslake outlasted Johnsburg 4-3 in nine innings. The Rams scored their winning run in the ninth on a single and stolen base by Mike Usmiller, a walk to Nathan Roberts and Vavrik's RBI single.

Grayslake scored one in the first, third, fifth and ninth innings. Johnsburg, which finished ahead of Grayslake in league standings, scored all three runs in the second.

Grayslake finished 8-6 in the NWSC, 10-12 overall for the regular season.

Grayslake enters the Waukegan regional pitted against the second-seed Bulldogs in the first round May 23. The Rams are looking to continue a two-year string of winning their first regional game.

The Rams' bats have been working overtime as of late, raising the team batting average to .323. Roberts led the way hitting .447 in conference, while Vavrik was next at .436. "The hitting was tremendous," Martin said.

In earlier games, the Rams fell 7-1 to Mundelein in a non-conference contest. Mike Vera was three-for-three and Roberts had an RBI double.

KID'S KORNER

Hints for traveling with baby

Summer is traditionally vacation time. For the modern family, this often includes traveling with a baby or toddler. With careful planning, you can make a trip with baby an enjoyable and relaxing experience—not only for you and your baby, but also for the people with whom you come in contact.

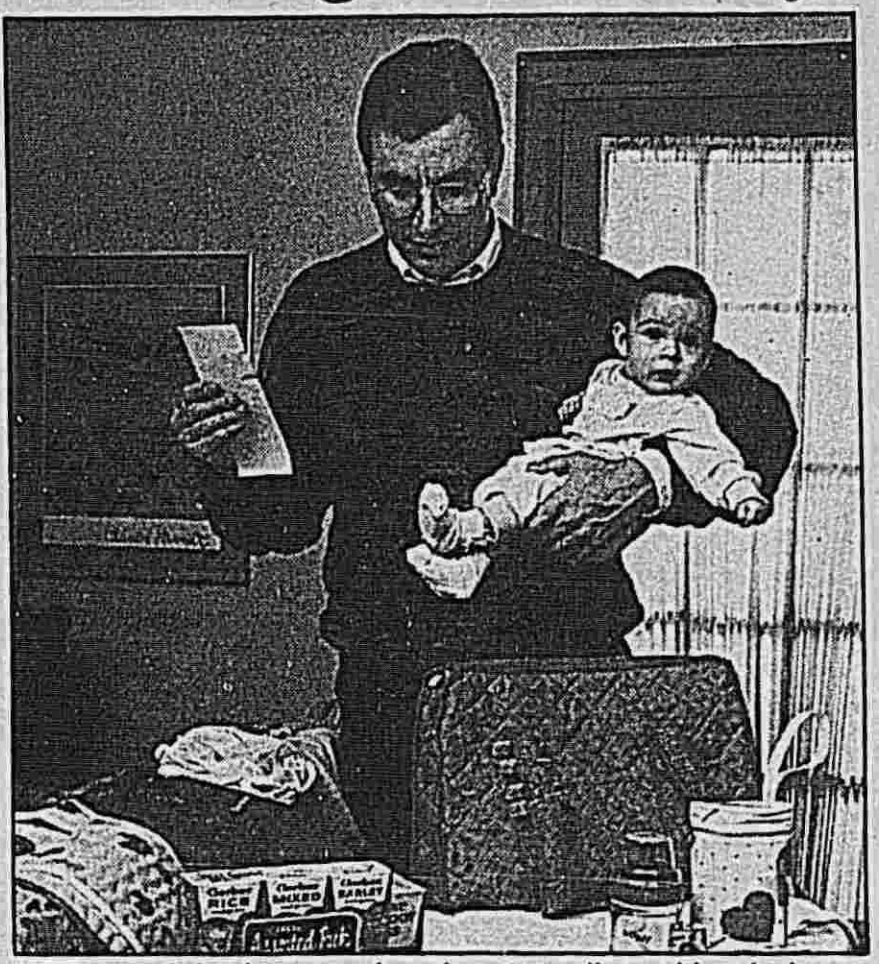

Advance planning is the key element to comfortable travel with children. Try to anticipate all of baby's needs well in advance of departure and prepare a separate checklist of the items the baby will require.

Gathering necessary equipment for the baby and keeping it together before leaving will avoid frenzied last-minute packing.

Babies require considerable equipment. After you know your needs for things such as bed, stroller, play yard, or highchair, determine if they are available at your destination. If not, you may wish to check the possibility of renting equipment rather than carrying it with you.

Determine the baby's needs during travel and pack these items separately. Items you will need frequently during travel include pre-moistened towelettes; diapers and other changing accessories such as pins, ointment, changing pad; a plastic bag or other closable receptacle for holding soiled diapers; a change of clothing; sweater or light jacket; additional blanket; toys; extra bibs; pacifier, feeding equipment; and food and formula.

Before departure, check the child's car seat and the automobile's restraint system to be certain both are in proper working order, just as you make sure the car is mechanically sound before leaving. This is also a good opportunity to refresh each family member's knowledge of proper installation and use of the child's car set.

With careful advance planning, traveling with a baby or toddler can be an enjoyable experience.

Travel will be more relaxing if children are entertained. Infants, as well as young children, should have a few favorite playthings to help keep them occupied.

Make sure that many of the toys, games and activities you take along are "surprises" for your child. The joy of discovery or re-discovery will provide a special delight. A good rule of thumb is to have a minimum of one toy for every hour you will be en route to your destination.

Keep entertainment materials in a special bag, taking out one thing at a time and returning each item after use. For toddler-age children and older, let them choose some of the toys for the trip. They will be more content with the knowledge that their favorite doll, puppet, car, or book are close at hand. The same goes for a child's favorite blanket or other "security" item.

Avoid taking things with sharp points or corners.

Before you depart on your trip, check your list twice to make sure you have everything you and your baby will need.

By thinking and preparing ahead, you will have made travel with baby simple and easy, and the simpler you make it, the easier and more pleasant you will find it to be.

Get plenty of rest before departure, take a deep breath and relax. Happy traveling!

Krumrey tells changes in Lake County farms

by STEVE PETERSON
Lakeland Newspapers

Some 23 years ago, there were 32,000 cows on Lake County Farms. In 1989, there were 13,924.

In 1979, there were 24,000 acres of oats in the county. Now there is half that amount.

Once there were dairy farms in the hundreds in Lake County. Now there is less than 10.

For it is facts like these which Walt Krumrey recited to a large and interested audience at the Grayslake Historical Society meeting. Krumrey, secretary of the Lake County Fair Board, described the state of farming in Lake County over the last half-century.

"I've worked with farms and farmers all my life," Krumrey said.

Krumrey was born on a farm where the present West Trails subdivision now stands in Grayslake. He began his career in farming as a milk tester, going from farm to farm in Lake and McHenry counties.

"I would drive 50,000 miles a year, but never be more than 50 miles from home," Krumrey, who used to drive Chryslers during those days, said.

Krumrey retired from those travels in 1979 and lives near the College of Lake County in Grayslake. Planning the Lake County Fair keeps the likeable Krumrey busy, though. He has also been a secretary to the Farm Bureau Board. "It is one of the most financially strong farm bureaus in the state," he said with pride.

Krumrey has been able to look back at some of the changes in agriculture. His family farm had one of the first combines in the area. "You used to never want to feed grain to cows, now it is amazing how much gain is fed to cows," he said.

Some of the veteran farmers in the audience also joined in Krumrey's talk to describe their experiences. Ray Doliute, who moved to a farm in the Antioch area in 1942, recalled when there were two other dairy farms nearby.

He or his sons would begin their days at 4 a.m. to milk the cows.
